Senate tells Danforth to reverse milk rule

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate approved, with only one dissenting vote, today a resolution that tells the attorney general to reverse his opinion saying Department of Agriculture milk records do not have to be made public under the state's new open meetings law.

The resolution, introduced by Sen. Paul Bradshaw, R-Springfield, requires concurrence by the House.

It asks Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth to reconsider the opinion and if he doesn't, the legislature would consider the opinion a "nullity."

Only Sen. Ralph Uthlaut, R-New Florence, voted against the resolution in the 30-1 vote.

Bradshaw, who asked for the opinion, said the people had a right to know milk price markup information sent to the Agriculture Department.

Agriculture Commissioner James Boillot refused to release the information, saying department regulations prevented it and saying it should be kept confidential to ensure competition.

The House Agriculture Committee has begun an investigation of the milk pricing practices in the Springfield area, where milk is highest in the state in retail stores, despite the fact that it is one of the nation's biggest milk producing areas.

The opinion, Bradshaw said, "would make the sunshine law a nullity."

Danforth said the records are from private industry and thus are not covered by the open meetings and records law, passed last session. He suggested the news media bring a lawsuit.

The resolution says:

"Be it resolved that the intent of the 77th General Assembly that no rules, regulations or ordinances of any governmental body shall supersede the provisions of said law, and all records, meetings or votes of any public body shall be open to the public unless specifically exempted by said law; and that the information required by rules 2.06 and 2.07 of the regulations of the Department of Agriculture were not exempted and were not intended to be so exempted."

The opinion was obtained for Springfield Newspapers, Inc., which was denied the information from Boillot's office.

A measure to allow the Public Service Commission to regulate service areas of Rural Electrical Cooperatives gained first-round approval in the Missouri House Tuesday.

The bill is an attempt to prevent duplication of service by rural cooperatives and private electrical firms in suburbs and fringe areas of cities.

In some areas cities have annexed suburbs in which co-ops were serving customers, resulting in duplication of transmission lines.

A move to cut off debate on the measure was successful after an amendment to provide complete PSC control over coops was ruled out of order.

The House delayed action on a measure to provide an exemption from sales tax for materials used in repair and manufacture of school buses after it became

Bruce, Kilgore also remain on ballot

Houchin, Fulton lead field

John Houchin and incumbent Don Fulton led Tuesday's primary election results with over one- half the votes cast. Also receiving enough votes to be on the April 2 general election ballot were Mikell Kilgore and former police chief, Arthur Bruce.

The two candidates failing to receive enough votes to advance were James G. "Pete" Malone and Denny Cornwell.

The four candidates are seeking two city council seats. One held by Fulton, the other by Chuck Grant. Grant did not file for re-election.

There were 2,700 votes cast. Vote totals by candidates were Fulton, 713; Houchin, 687; Bruce, 512, Kilgore, 413; Malone, 312, and Cornwell, 64.

Voting was heavy Tuesday afternoon, after a light morning turnout, breaking a pattern which had developed in city voting during the past few primaries. During recent primaries, vote totals compiled by The Daily Standard at 11 a.m. represented approximately one- half of the total votes cast.

In this election, however, the 11 a.m. vote total represented about one- ninth of the votes cast.

At 11 a.m. Tuesday there were 306 votes cast out of a total of 2,701. In 1972, the totals were 305 and 1,190; in 1971, the total was 244 and 450.

Child killed in Wayne County accident

One person was killed, four seriously injured and three others received minor injuries Tuesday in three area traffic accidents, the highway patrol reported today.

Cheri Springer, 5, of Minneapolis, Minn. was killed at 11:40 a.m. Tuesday one mile south of Coldwater on Highway 67 in Wayne County, when the southbound car in which she was riding was struck head-on. The accident occurred when a northbound pick- up truck driven by Thurman Lloyd Jr., 39, of St. Louis attempted to pass another vehicle and struck a car driven by Lee Taylor Jester, 29, of Hugo, Minn. head- on.

Receiving serious injuries in the accident were Elsi Jester, 64, of Hugo, Minn.; Cleo McDuffee, 76, and Marion McDuffee, 66, of Flat River, all passengers in the Jester car. Jester and Lloyd both received minor injuries. All were taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff. The body of Miss Springer was taken to the Gish- Bowles and Coder Funeral Home in Piedmont.

Lloyd, formerly of Kennett, had been released Sunday afternoon from the Dunklin County Jail after paying the balance of a fine on a driving while intoxicated conviction. Upon his release, he told authorities he was returning to St. Louis where he had a job waiting.

Lloyd was arrested by Kennett police three weeks ago on the charge and pleaded guilty the following day.

No charges have been filed.

In a one- car accident at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, five miles south of Dexter on Highway 25, Grace Higgins Butler, 48, of Hickman, Ky. received serious injuries when the southbound car which she was driving ran off the road at an excessive rate of speed and struck a power pole. She was treated at Dexter Memorial Hospital.

George Wesley Toppins, 36, of Fredericktown, received minor injuries at 4:15 p.m. Tuesday in a two-car accident on Route N, two miles east of Saco in Madison County. The accident occurred when a car driven west by Robert Leroy Sutton, 25, of Annapolis crossed the center line on a curve and sideswiped the eastbound Toppins vehicle.

City urged to consider flood plaining plan

The city should consider adding a flood plain section to its zoning ordiances to help comply with what could soon become federal building requirements, Ken Waido of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, told the City Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday night.

Waido said the city may be required by law to require flood plain insurance to all buildings, homes included, which are built with federal financing in flood plains. The requirement could become effective in two or three years after government officials complete a flood plain survey of the entire United States

A flood plain survey of Sikeston has been completed and about half the city lies in the flood plain.

Waido said if flood plain insurance is required before someone can build on their property, the building will have to comply with the federal regulations. For instance, a house may have to be built five feet above the street line to comply.

Waido said the city wouldn't have to zone an area as a flood plain, because then the city would have to limit its use. Instead, he said, the city should make people aware of the danger of flooding.

Acting city manager, Bill Whitlock, said the regulations would cost the city a "tremendous" amount of money because Sikeston would have to hire at least two people to do nothing but give builders of the proper land elevations so they could build houses.

He said today he doubted the government could make the regulations stick because of political pressures.

In other action, Waido told the commissioners the city's revised comprehensive plan has been corrected and sent to press.

The commission tabled a request to rezone a vacant lot on Rueben Avenue, from residential to light industrial.

The commission approved the rezoning of land south of Highway 60 across from the farmer's market building from single family to commercial. The land is being turned into a 13- lot subdivision.

The commission accepted a plat change of Kirkwood drive. The drive had been built slightly different from the plat and the property owners want the plat reapproved.

Youth arrested after chase

CHARLESTON-- Terry Mayabb, 17, of East Prairie was arrested about 2:45 p.m. Tuesday on Route Z, southwest of East Prairie following a high speed chase by Charleston police officers Willis Cox and Walter Westerhold.

Mayabb, was observed speeding on South Main Street by the officers and the chase began after the officers pulled in behind Mayabb's car.

Charges of speeding, reaching speeds up to 105 miles per hour, in a 55 mile zone, improper passing, running a stop sign and careless and imprudent driving have been filed against Mayabb, who is being held in the Mississippi County Jail.

He will appear Thursday before Magistrate T. J. Brown Jr.

Fraud suspect jailed

BLOOMFIELD-- The Stoddard County Sheriff's Department is holding Kenneth Barnes, 28, of Hannibal in the Stoddard County jail on suspicion of fraud in connection with the purchase of three tractors which he supposedly purchased from area dealers with the intent to fraud.

According to a spokesman for the sheriff's department, Barnes would go to a dealership, purchase a tractor, write the dealer a check, and tell him he would pick up the tractor later. He would then return after the bank closed or early the next morning and pick up the tractor. The dealer would then run the check through the bank and discover the buyer was using the wrong name and had no account with the bank whatsoever.

The three tractors which have been recovered, were purchased from dealers in Charleston, Sikeston and Dexter. Barnes was apprehended Tuesday at Monroe City by authorities of that city and a Stoddard County sheriff's deputy. Other suspects are being sought, but no further arrests have been made at this time.

We are not in favor of amnesty.

The energy industry is currently giving Americans a cram course in conservation.

On television especially, pretty ladies tell motorists how to get the most out of a gallon of gasoline, homeowners how to save heating gas or oil, housewives how to use a stove or washing machine economically.

It's all pitched to the understanding of a 12-year-old — but that's probably all right since it is said that this is about the intelligence level of the average person. And certainly Americans have never before had to worry about where their next gallon or cubic foot or kilowatt of energy was coming from.

The trouble is that these pitchmen are the same crew who not so long ago were urging Americans to use more of everything as if there were no tomorrow, pushing such hardly essential items — for example — as decorative outdoor gas lights.

Energy industry spokesmen remind us that they warned the nation about a coming energy shortage, and it is on the record that they did.

They just forgot to notify their advertising departments until lately.

WHEN GOVERNMENT CAN'T MANAGE

Economic conditions have reached a strange place. When we asked a local business house why we didn't receive a statement the 1st of the month, they said our bill was not sufficient to spend 10 cents to make out and mail it. We do well, these days, to make ends meet. Uncle Sam runs the post office, loses money on it every year and is constantly raising postage rates. The Shelbina Democrat's postage is increasing 40 per cent this year. Already it costs us $1.00 a year for postage alone, to say nothing of what it costs to hire someone to run the press, run the mailing machine, tie up the mail, carry the mail to the post office, carry the mail from the press to mailer and when we have two sections, which we frequently do, it takes three more girls to do the stuffing. Then, too, Uncle Sam runs the railroads and loses money on them regularly. The railroads which operate for themselves, are in such bad way financially, that good Uncle Santa Claus comes through the millions of dollars to keep them going. But for that matter, look at what Congress and the President are doing in the way of running the country. Every year there is a deficit of several billion dollars. Of course it is easy to just print some more money, but it is conceivable that as the debt reaches nearer the trillion mark, our money won't be worth much.

OUR DEPENDENCE UPON OTHER NATION'S MINERALS

The oil influence and its affect on inflation in the United States puts more than economists in a quandry since it prices consumers out of buying goods and services.

Although it may never come to that, the real question is whether or not the industrialized nations of Western Europe, America and Japan will allow a few Arabs states to control their economic destiny. No matter what the end result, Arab oil leaders have managed in a short time span to force a four - fold increase in the posted price of oil. Obviously, other producers os carce raw materials in Africa, Latin America and Asia are encouraged to try their hand at the same game. ARTIFICIAL CONTROLS DISTORT ECONOMY SAYS TIRE EXECUTIVE

A supporter of free market controls, Riley labeled government controls as "artificial," and questioned their distorting effects on American industry's production and distribution.

"Beyond the lack of understanding," Riley said, "business is being blamed for inflation and our government has tried various forms of price control as a remedy."

Riley pointed out his concern for the lack of belief in America's economic system and in business and industry in general.

"The free enterprise system is the most efficient production system ever devised," and is needed more than ever "in a world where poverty and food shortages abound," he emphasized.

The free enterprise market is the best means ofr organizing and coordinating the skills and abilities of man, the Firestone executive said.

"Public misunderstanding of our market system shows itself in the constant attack on profits," Riley noted. "However, a continuous flow of profits is essential to capital formation on which jobs, taxes and rising living standards depend.

"There is no such thing as profitless prosperity," he said.

A FATHER'S HOPE

Most young people find that sometime in their early and middle teens, parents may become quite a burden and may stay that way for quite awhile. It is during this trying time that youngsters test their wings and out of the confusion gain some understanding of life. But now that higher education is being spread around a little more liberally than it used to be, most youngsters pack off to college just about the time they are at the height of their teen-age confusion. Very often the Ivied Halls do little, at least for the first two or three years, to nurture the tender seed of common sense and human wisdom which may be seeking to take root somewhere in the student's cranial area.

Mr. William F. McCurdy, an executive of one of the nation's largest retailing organizations, wrote a letter to his son on the occasion of his beginning his college career. His letter offers good advice for a lot of older people as well as those on the young side of the generation gap. He said, "Above all else we hope that you will not destroy the private enterprise system in America. We hope rather that you will understand it, appreciate it, learn to cherish it, because if you don't my son, I predict that 20 years from now you're going to have a son driving off to school during another generation gap and you're going to be defending your generation against his generation and he's going to be saying that your generation turned out to be a bunch of sociological weirdos who were the residual legatees of an economic Garden of Eden and had neither the good sense nor strength to preserve it." It is the job of young and old alike to see that this can never be said about any generation of Americans.

PUTTING IT TOGETHER

The secret of success in retailing is efficient, high-volume movement of goods to consumers -- which means moving them at minimum prices. Once a store falls short of meeting the tastes and pocketbook limitations of its customers, it is in trouble.

Supermarket News tells how one enterprising head of a retail management company has made a success of turning losing stores into "winners". His company recently purchased 49 southern California food stores that were viewed by the industry as losers. In other words, lack of customers, threatened store closures, lost jobs and eventually less consumer choice in the marketplace. However, the head of the management firm that took over the stores, according to Supermarket News, reports business picking up. In six months, they have experienced sales gains of 10 to 15 percent. He credits the introduction of trading stamps as an aid in building sales volume. In short, promotion.

Some consumerists say promotion and advertising push up business costs and hence mean higher prices to consumers. They never stop to think that the competitive nature of retailing automatically holds prices to a minimum. If the retailer is to do a good job and provide maximum service to consumers, he must endeavor to offer the consumer a little something extra. This is the purpose of promotion and advertising. Without it, there would be fewer stores and less freedom of choice in the marketplace.

GLOBAL BUSINESS SAID NOT TO BE INFLATION CAUSE

Only governments create inflation because they alone can print money, according to Walter Wriston, chairman of First National City Corporation.

He said that the world corporation is often cited as a cause of inflation by critics who ignore the fact that we in America have printed dollars too fast and that the Federal budget has been balanced only 7 times in the past 25 years.

"It is clear to those managing American - based multinational enterprises that a pure adversary relationship between business and government has become an anachronism in the 20th century. We have even failed to contradict the concept that a businessman who talks to his elected representative is somehow evil and that his voice should not be heard on matters of public policy," he said. Mr. Wriston spoke before the International Industrial Conference in San Francisco, Ca.

"On the other side of the oceans, the perception is also growing that a new age of mercantilism is not the answer to today's problems," he said. "The outworn doctrine of a controlled economy is becoming more and more a manifestation of the persistence of illusion over reality.

"The world corporation ... must play a constructive role in moving the world toward the freer exchange of both ideas and means of production so that the people of our planet may one day enjoy the fruits of a truly global society," Mr. Wriston concluded.

MACAP, CRICAP, AUTO-CAP, FICAP — the list of acronyms is growing, and for the benefits of consumers. All of these Consumer Action Panels have been created to deal with complaints that have not been attended to through regular channels.

The first one, the Major Appliance Appliance CAP, is now two years old, and has received an award for outstanding achievement in furthering consumer action in the marketplace from the Council of Better Business Bureaus.

Basically the way MACAP works is to send unresolved complaints to the participating trade associations concerned with the complaint. Many are resolved at this level. The rest go to the MACAP panel at the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers in Chicago. Although every effort is made to resolve the complaints, some do go unresolved.

Although statistics are not complete, a brief survey shows that appliance service complaints have dropped from first place in the last two years. This sould seem to indicate that MACAP has had some impact.

The carpet and rug industry and the automobile dealers have followed MACAP with similar programs. The newest to join the group is the Furniture Industry Consumer Advisory Panel sponsored by the Southern Furniture Manufacturers Assn.

In introducing the FICAP at a press conference in Washington, Virginia Knauer, Consumer Adviser to the President, suggested that these organizations could be improved by better informing the public of their existence.

However, one question frequently asked is whether or not the availability of such a complaint mechanism will increase unjustified complaints. Undoubtedly more consumer education is needed to assist these CAP groups in serving the public.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

Curious Cash Flow Found in Bebe's Bank

WASHINGTON -- Congressional investigators have traced a curious cash flow through presidential pal Bebe Rebozo's Key Biscayne, Fla., bank in 1970-71.

The trail leads to Switzerland where money can be hidden in numbered bank accounts.

As part of the investigation into President Nixon's tax returns, the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation has checked a number of accounts in Rebozo's bank. It has taken lengthy statements from Rebozo.

Elaborate charts, covering two large desk tops, have been prepared showing how mysterious cash sums were routed through the bank, our committee sources say.

The investigators have not established that Rebozo himself has a secret Swiss bank account. But a committee investigator will fly to Paris and Geneva in an attempt to follow the flow of cash to Switzerland.

We were unable to reach Rebozo for comment. But he has denied to committee investigators that he has been involved in any improper cash transactions.

The investigators are trying to determine whether the sudden movement of cash through the Rebozo bank in 1970-71 is linked to efforts to raise money for the President.

It has now been established, for example, that the $100,000 cash gift from billionaire Howard Hughes was delivered to Rebozo in 1970. We have also traced at least two other smaller cash contributions to Rebozo, who was not an authorized Republican fund raiser.

He has insisted, nevertheless, that the contributions were intended for the President's political campaigns.

Both chairman Russell Long, D- La., and cochairman Wilbur Mills, D- Ark., have agreed that the committee should establish only how much more taxes the President owes and should not make any judgments about possible tax fraud.

Any evidence of fraud, they have agreed, should be turned over to the Internal Revenue Service and the House impeachment panel. As we have previously reported, the IRS has already assigned the Nixon tax investigation to the Intelligence Unit which handles criminal cases. Our sources say the unit funds criminal violations in about 50 per cent of its investigations.

FOOTNOTE: The committee staff members are amazed at the number of petty tax deductions Nixon claimed. Apparently, it was his policy to claim a deduction for even the most doubtful items.

In contrast, the staff advised Gerald Ford, before he became Vice President, that he could take a deduction for an item he questioned. Later, the IRS challenged the deduction. "If there is the slightest question about it," staff members recall Ford saying, "I would prefer to pay." He immediately wrote out a check for the amount rather than contest it.

POLITICAL PROSECUTIONS: In the wake of Watergate, federal prosecutors suddenly have started pouncing upon politicians. From Oklahoma to Missouri, top political figures have come under intense federal investigation.

The latest victim is the legislative assistant to Rep. Fred Rooney, D- Pa., a young man named William Kovacs who simply carried out the congressman's orders. He filed a suit to free impounded sewer and water funds on behalf of five townships in the home district.

For filing this Mandamus action, the young assistant has now come under criminal investigation. Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen notified Rooney in a February 19 letter that the Justice Department "has initiated an investigation to determine whether your legislative assistant, William Kovacs, has violated" the law.

It's true that the law prohibits government employes from acting as agents or attorneys in cases against the government. But an exception is made for an employe who acts "in the proper discharge of his official duties."

The criminal investigation, meanwhile, has effectively blocked the impoundment case.

After repeated unsuccessful efforts by Kovacs' attorney to arrange a meeting with Justice Department officials, Rooney put through a personal call to Petersen.

The congressman's notes on the conversation quote Petersen as saying he "is waiting for the facts" and doesn't want "to make any conclusion at this time." Rooney also quotes Petersen as wishing to check out the technicalities of the "goddamn statutes."

Petersen told us he did not recall his exact words but said "I'm not responsible" for what the law says. He hoped the matter would be resolved shortly, he said. Meanwhile, he stressed, it was "not the intent" of the probe to interfere with the laws t.

WAVE OF KIDNAPPINGS

This seems to be the season of kidnapping and extortion. The abduction of Patricia Hearst in California has brought home to the American people the horrors of this vicious sort of criminal activity. It seems to have sparked the latent criminal intents of potential abductors. Fortunately, the FBI and the police have made short work of most of the kidnappings and all but the Hearst case remain a nightmare in the sense that the victim has not been found alive and well.

There is amove afoot to reinstitute the capital punishment law in the case of kidnappings where the victim is killed. This does not go far enough. Abduction and resulting extortion should be punishable by death regardless of the fate of the victim. If potential kidnappers knew they faced death in the electric chair, they would be far less apt to carry out their schemes. Prison sentences have not served as an adequate deterrent

Kidnappings are just one phase of criminal activity that poses a threat to our society. It is time for the legislative bodies and the courts to eliminate legal loopholes now so wantonly used by felons to escape their just dues. The police agencies alone cannot get the job done. They need the tools of the law to help them. If you agree with this premise, you can do something about the crime situation. Tell your legislators you want tougher laws to protect the innocent and halt the criminal We can stop crime if we made a concerted effort to do the job.

Scott County assistance payments total $140,484

The Scott County welfare office disbursed funds totaling $140,484.09 in February, with the greatest part being paid to the aid to dependent children program.

State supplemental payments of $15,984 were paid to 509 persons. These persons were transferred to the new federal Supplemental Security Income payroll and also remained eligible for a supplemental payment from the state. These received payments under the new SSI program and the state supplemental program.

There were 295 persons who received state supplemental payments only, totaling $14,680. This group previously received old age assistance, permanent and total disability or aid to the blind and were not eligible for the new SSI program.

The Missouri Division of Welfare continues to administer through its county welfare office the aid to dependent children and general relief assistance plus three new programs since Jan. 1, which include the supplemental aid to the blind, supplemental nursing care and medical assistance programs.

A total of 812 families with 1,934 children received $94,036 in the aid to dependent children category, averaging $115.76 per family.

General relief funds of $15,275 went to 212 families, consisting of 233 persons, with a family check averaging $65.55 per person.

Child welfare services were provided for 144 children, and 214 children were given preventive services. Another $2,180.42 was expended from state- county funds for 30 children in foster care.

A total of 1,227 households, consisting of 3,888 persons, participated in the Food Stamp Program during January. They paid $55,144 and received $74,464 in bonus coupons, making a total of $129,608 in coupons issued to food stamp households.

Ex-newsman Huntley dies

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Former television newscaster Chet Huntley, who teamed with David Brinkley for 14 years on NBC-TV's nightly Huntley-Brinkley Report, died today.

Huntley, 62, had been suffering from lung cancer.

His widow, Tippy Huntley, said he died at 2:20 a.m.

He had been undergoing periodic treatment and underwent surgery in January.

Huntley resigned from NBC in 1970 to develop Big Sky Inc. of Montana, a massive resort and ski complex in the Gallatin Canyon southwest of Bozeman.

Huntley and Brinkley were accidentally teamed by NBC at the 1956 national political conventions. They went so well together their show became part of American folklore.

Besides top ratings, Huntley-Brinkley won every major television news award, including seven Emmies and two George Foster Peabody awards. Huntley was the serious one, Brinkley the wit.

When Huntley quit in 1970 to return to his native Montana, Brinkley said it was at last easier to tell which was which.

Huntley was born in Cardwell, Mont., son of a telegrapher.

He won a scholarship to Montana State College in 1929. Three years of pre-medical school led nowhere. Then he won a national oratory contest and a scholarship to the Cornish School of Arts in Seattle in 1932.

He switched to the University of Washington the following year and "since my dad was only working two days a week in the Depression" he supported himself by working as a waiter, telegram delivery boy, window washer and by selling pints of his blood.

In 1934 he got a $10-a-month job with a 100-watt radio station, KCBC, in Seattle. In addition to his salary, he got laundry service and was allowed to use sponsorship accounts to trade for food.

There was no wire service, so he bought a Seattle Star and rewrote it for a 15-minute newscast every night.

In 1938 he went to CBS in Los Angeles, as correspondent for 11 Western states. In 1951 he switched to ABC in Los Angeles, and four years later moved to NBC in New York.

Instead, he did TV commercials, taped a radio show, and promoted Big Sky a rich man's resort near Bozeman, Mont.

It has been estimated there are about 4.7 million bee colonies in the United States, with the average colony yielding 41.9 pounds of honey a year.

Chaffee council votes to remove alderman

CHAFFEE — The Chaffee City Council during its regular meeting Tuesday night voted to remove Joe Richbourg from office.

Richbourg, who had been elected to serve as alderman from ward three, had refused to resign from his position after moving several months ago to ward two. He has one year remaining in his term.

The council said a public hearing will be held on the issue on March 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the council room.

J. A. Chronister, who was appointed by the council to work on an ambulance plan for Chaffee, presented guidelines to the council concerning the ambulance system. The Council approved his plan.

Know Your P's and Q's About Plate Collecting?

WANTED: One rare, gilt-edge plate in pure white translucent china – hand-painted with a garland of wild roses. You find this prize plate in a jungle of antiques at a garage sale and buy it for $10.

THE YEAR is 1979. An eager collector wants to buy your wild rose plate for $395! If you sell it, you suddenly make $385, because you knew how to spot a "sleeper" with true artistic worth and rarity.

FICTION? Not altogether. Today, many average people with only average incomes make money buying and selling collector's plates while they enjoy one of the most fascinating of all hobbies.

Will this plate multiply in value to 10, 15 or even 20 times its original price as other plates have done?

For instance, a china plate first priced at only $10 in 1969 now brings $245. Another exceptional plate originally priced at $25 in 1965 now sells for $1,050.

WHAT is the secret of success in collecting plates for profit? A suburban Chicago art dealer says, "The amateur collector needs professional guidance. You should know what to look for, when to buy, and much more."

According to this dealer, when you know the guidelines, there's much more than profit in collecting rare plates. There's pride of ownership almost unequalled by any other hobby. There's the joy of discovering stunning porcelain, glass, pewter, or silver plates for dramatic wall displays.

You can choose designs by Pablo Picasso, Grandma Moses, André Restieau, Andrew Wyeth, and other noted artists. There are all kinds of themes – nature scenes, stirring historical events, childhood vignettes, portraits of world heros, and much more.

FREE INFORMATION. To help you get started in the rewarding hobby of plate collecting, this dealer now offers free information on request. It tells how to choose potentially priceless heirlooms for as little as $15 or $20. Individuals (not dealers) are invited to send for the free facts without obligation. To get yours, send your name, address, and zip code to Bradford Galleries, 954-L Sunset Ridge, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Please mail your request by March 30, 1974, to reserve your free copy while the supply lasts.

Miss Ruhl, Michael Britt exchange vows

First Christian Church was the setting Feb. 23 for the candlelight wedding of Barbara Ann Ruhl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Ruhl, 128 Norval Ave., and Michael Keith Britt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Britt, 235 Helen Ave.

The Rev. Paul Walker performed the double- ring ceremony, and Mrs. Jean Livingston provided appropriate organ music.

The three candelabras and two outside candles in the unity candelabra were lit by two of the bride's sisters, Marilyn Ruhl of Springfield and Judy Ruhl of Sikeston. They wore light blue gowns with white lace- covered cuffs, high necks and belts. The dresses featured sheer puffed sleeves, fitted belts and slight fullness in the skirts.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a fitted, white velvet gown with a V- neck, straight sleeves and a full skirt. The veil was two tiered and edged in lace with a full train edged in matching lace. The bride's bouquet was white baby sweetheart roses edged in blue baby's breath. Her only jewelry was a blue Star of David necklace.

The groom wore an ivory white tuxedo with black velvet trim. He also wore a boutonniere to match the bride's bouquet.

Groomsmen were Timothy Britt of Sikeston, brother of the groom, and Terry Russell of Richland. They also served as ushers.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The reception table was decorated with a wedding tablecloth and a three- tiered wedding cake on the center of the table. The cake was white, decorated with blue roses and white swans, and was topped with a miniature bride and groom under an arch. On one end of the table was a cut glass punch bowl set, and on the other end was a coffee service set.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Keith Britt

Servers were the bride's sisters, Marilyn, Judy and Debbie Ruhl, and the groom's sister, Cynthia Ann Britt.

Out- of- town guests were:

The Rev. and Mrs. John Bell of Caruthersville; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Verble of Cairo, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Russell of Richland; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Clark of Fredericktown; Mr. and Mrs. Al Rhoads of Bridgeton; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ray Powers of Dresden, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Weinrich of Perryville; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Duty of Bloomfield; Michael White of Ava; Mr. and Mrs. B. Thompson of New Madrid.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Slaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Criger and Miss Helen Slaughter of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Britt, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Britt and Mrs. Jake Walker and Mrs. Mae Britt of East Prairie; and Mr. and Mrs. Steven Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Scott James, Dr. and Mrs. Jim Tom Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Loiseau and Jim Ervin of Cape Girardeau.

On Feb. 3, Miss Ruhl was surprised with a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Debra Verble, Miss Sharon Weinrich and Miss Karen Weinrich. The guests at the shower were residents of Dearmont A- 2 school system and other friends. Refreshments were served from a table decorated in the bride's colors.

On Feb. 8, Miss Ruhl was honored with a shower given by Mrs. Bob Hatley, Mrs. Willard McDaniel and Mrs. Don Miller. Decorations in the First Christian Church fellowship hall followed the bride's color scheme.

On Feb. 22, the groom's parents were hosts for a rehearsal dinner for members of the wedding party at Two-Tony's Smorgasbord. The wedding color scheme was carried out in table and room decorations. Miss Ruhl and Britt presented gifts of jewelry to their attendants.

ATLAS SAVES GAS

NEW YORK (AP) — Mileage charts and detailed area maps are turning out to be the best friend of the "gasless-Sunday" driver, according to veteran road atlas publisher Rand McNally. The company's 1974 road atlas includes point-to-point mileage charts for the United States, Mexico and Canada. It also details historic, educational and recreational sites to help careful drivers plan their trips and pick their gasless Sunday destinations in advance.

Ann Landers

New school is for homosexuals only

Dear Ann Landers: I am a homosexual. I've been hearing some talk about a new school, soon to be opened, called Lavender University. It is, of course, for homosexuals only, both male and female, and I think it's a fantastic idea. Unfortunately, there are very few places besides gay bars where lonesome homosexuals can meet one another.

Will you please get some information on Lavender U. and give me some facts? Thank you very much. And thank you, too, for your enlightened approach to those of us who are "different."-- Bay Area Admirer

Dear Bay: "Lavender U." is scheduled to open in San Francisco later this year. The school will offer no degrees and will have no campus. The fees will be established by the faculty. Many classes will be held in the homes of the instructors until they are able to construct or buy a building.

The courses they plan to offer are Greek literature, metaphysics, photography, opera appreciation, modern dance, jewelry- making, and hiking.

One of the problems the innovators anticipate is that some heterosexuals might try to enroll. They say they want only homosexuals, but there is no way to make a person prove he is gay. I hope they don't spend too much time worrying about this "obstacle" since I seriously doubt that a school of this type would attract many straights.

Dear Ann Landers: Whenever we meet another couple for cocktails, and the check arrives, my husband manages to leaf through his wallet just long enough so that the other fellow pays it.

This embarrasses me to death. How can I get this clip artist to pay our way? Please suggest something subtle-- Married To A Sponge

Dear Married: Sorry, but a guy whose hide is as thick as your husband's wouldn't respond to anything subtle. You'll have to hit him with a sledge hammer. Suggested line when the check appears: "Oh, no-- THIS time my husband is going to be the host. We were YOUR guests last time." Keep track and make the sponge alternate, whether he likes it or not.

Dear Ann Landers: My boyfriend and I are both 17. We've been hassling about drugs and I need somebody on my side.

I tried grass a year ago. It was fun but I got mixed up a lot and forgot things, especially what time it was. My parents raised hell with me when I came in past curfew one night and I decided to knock it off.

Now my boyfriend is into acid and insists there is nothing wrong with it. He claims "recent studies" have turned up no evidence that LSD is damaging to the chromosomes. He keeps bugging me to try it.

I've heard that kids have died from bad trips. Let's have some facts.--N.N.P.

Dear N.: Your boyfriend is wrong. There is still some questions about chromosomal damage from LSD (and also pot). The dangerous aspects of dropping acid are the depressions following the euphoria and the hallucinations which sometimes return after several months. Many acid freaks have jumped off rooftops (thought they could fly), and walked into traffic and in front of trains (believing they were indestructible). LSD is dynamite. It can blow your mind. Leave it alone.

Scout leaders plan summer events

Girl Scout neighborhood meetings were held March 6 and 13. Junior- Cadette-Senior leaders met March 6 at First United Methodist Church, with Mrs. James Handy Moore presiding and Brownie leaders met at 112 Thomas St., with Mrs. Fred Thornton as chairman.

Cotton Boll Council Round- up, scheduled May 3, 4 and 5 at Sweetwater Farm near Clarkton, is designed for Junior, Cadette and Senior troops. Each Cadette troop will present a demonstration of a craft or skill based on American heritage on Saturday afternoon of the round- up.

Day camp, which includes troops from Matthews, Morley and Vanduser, as well as Sikeston, is scheduled at the Bill Lewis farm June 3- 7. The registration fee is $4.50 and registration deadline is May 1. Mrs. Bill Lewis, director of Day Camp '74, wants high school girls and adults interested in helping with the day camp to call her immediately. Her phone number is 471- 9525.

Girl Scout Camp Latonka will offer four sessions of established troop camping this summer from June 16 to Aug. 8. Mrs. Pat Lea and several Cadette scouts (in charge of camp promotion) will visit Brownie and Junior troops in the next four weeks to explain what Camp Latonka offers girls. Riflery, horseback riding, water skiing and bicycling will be available.

Miss Ilena Aslin, director of Cotton Boll Council, reported that 1,942 cases of cookies were sold in Sikeston during the recent sale, compared with 1,669 cases in 1973. Most of the cookie money is used to build and maintain Camp Latonka. Improvements include a trailer being refurbished to be used as an infirmary, the trading post being expanded and improved, the "old house" being made into a winterized troop house and a new pier and two boat ramps being constructed.

A values clarification workshop will be offered Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at First Christian Church in Poplar Bluff. All leaders and interested adults are requested to attend. To register, contact Mrs. Moore or Mrs. Thornton.

Our bibulous neighbor spends every Saturday night out.

How come so many people get sick the day the boss takes off?

Caring for your new baby

Sensitivity helps child notice things

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles presented by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare to describe some of the things about normal babies that commonly worry parents -- telling what to do or not to do about them. The articles should answer many questions about what to expect of a new baby, and give simple instructions about solving problems that most parents face during their baby's first year of life. This section of the series concerns the development of a child after the first few weeks when he is visibly growing every day, developing a few rudimentary language skills and becoming more mobile.

TEMPERAMENT — Part 2

Approach or withdrawal: How does your baby usually react the first time to new people, new foods, new toys and new activities? Does he reach out for them and seem pleased, or does he shy away and fuss? Approach and withdrawal differs from adaptability in that it describes the baby's first reaction to something new rather than the length of time or number of tries it takes him to get used to it.

The baby who immeciately reaches out for something seems easier to deal with at first. But the baby who withdraws slightly from a new situation may be much easier to keep out of trouble and danger when he is a little older. Again, either characteristic is good or bad, but they do require different handling.

Threshold level or sensitivity: Is you baby very aware of slight noises, slight differences in temperature, slight differences in tastes or in different types of clothing? Will he wake up at the slightest noise, or can he sleep through anything? Do bright lights or sunlight make him blink or cry?

If he doesn't like a new food, does he notice the difference when you mix a little of it with an old food that he does like? Does he let you know every time his diapers are wet or does he ignore it?

Very high sensitivity may make your job more difficult at first, but the child who notices small differences may learn some things faster or more easily at a later age.

Extreme insensitivity to sounds may be caused by deafness, not temperament. You should certainly mention it to your doctor.

Intensity of reaction: How strong or violent are his reactions when he is pleased or displeased? Does he laugh and wriggle all over or just smile when he is pleased? Does he frown and fuss quietly or does he scream loudly when he is upset? If he doesn't like a new food, does he quietly turn his face away, or does he hit the spoon away, spit out the food and cry?

If your baby reacts very strongly and intensely, you will want to teach him that he can get what he wants without being quite so loud and active. Don't let him learn that you only pay attention to him when he reacts very strongly. Of course, his active way of showing pleasure will make up for some of his loud crying when he is disappointed.

Distractability: How likely is your baby to turn his attention from what he is doing to something new? If you are feeding him, will he keep on sucking no matter what happens? Or will he stop and pay attention when a door opens or someone else comes into the room?

If he is hungry, will a toy keep him quiet for a few minutes while you are getting the bottle, or will he just keep on demanding his bottle? If he is playing with his rattle, will he quickly turn his attention to a new sound or sight?

You may want to test him in a quiet place if he is very distractable and give him just one or two toys at any one time. If he is not at all distractable, you will have to be very firm when you want him to change from one thing to another.

Positive or negative mood: How much of the time does your baby show friendly, pleasant, joyful behavior as compared to unpleasant crying, fussy or unfriendly behavior? This means not just his first reaction to new situations, or too the times when he is actually hungry or uncomfortable it means the way he seems to be during most of the day.

His mood may be expressed quietly with a frown or a whimper, or with a smile and a twinkling eye. Or it may be loud screaming or a deep laugh.

A baby with a negative mood is much harder for anyone to deal with. You will have to realize that the few bright sposts in his day mean you are doing a lot of things the right way. You must remember that his general unpleasantness does not necessarily mean that you are doing something wrong. He will wear you out much more quickly.

You may need more recreation and moretime away from him. You will have to learn to ignore some of his crying and fussing once you have made sure he really doesn't need anything at the moment and has no reason to be uncomfortable.

Attention span and persistence: How long will he stick with something he is doing? Will he continue to try even if it is difficult for him? Even if you try to stop him? If he reaches for something out of reach, will he keep trying? Or give up quickly? Will he keep watching something above his crib for 10 to 15 minutes; or will he turn to something else after a few minutes.

Attention span and persistence mean how long he sticks with something on his own, not how easy it is to distract him with something new or different.

You will be pleased when he persists in things you like, but not pleased when he persists in making trouble! You will want to be firm and patient and use distraction in getting a persistent child to change activities. You will want to encourage and praise a nonpersistent child for sticking with a useful activity.

If you pay attention to how hour child measures up in each of these traits, you will be able to help him in the ways he needs help. And you will be much more certain that what you are doing is right for him. You would be much less likely to think that he is a "bad" baby or that you are a "bad" mother.

Ag career meeting held here

Counselors, vocational- agricultural instructors and students from a nine- county Bootheel area gathered at the Ramada Inn Tuesday night for a mini- workshop in agricultural careers.

The dinner meeting was hosted by the Sikeston and Caruthersville Production Credit associations and was attended by about 35 persons from counties of Scott, Stoddard, Mississippi, New Madrid, Bollinger, Cape Girardeau, Dunklin and Butler and from the University of Missouri- Columbia.

Homer C. Folks, associate dean of the college of agriculture at the University of Missouri- Columbia, in speaking on the subject "Together Toward Tomorrow", said "We hold to the idea that an education ... ought to enable you to realize your goals, dreams and objectives."

He explained that education in agriculture is no different than the education in anything else. "It's a matter of teaching young people new ideas and packagaing them in such a way that young people can relate these back to what they know and ... so that it becomes something real for the individual," he said.

Folks told the instructors and counselors, "In the process of education I would hope that ... we're all helping young people move a little bit closer toward their objectives. Education should be geared to helping the individual shape his talents in such a way that he can be productive ... and he can be comfortable in living within social modes."

Robert A. Wright, president of the Sikeston PCA, spoke on "The Business World Beyond the Campus," accented with a slide presentation of some of the successful young farmers in the area, and how important an education is in reaching goals. Wright said he could not "overemphasize the need for maximum education at all levels."

"We (the farming community) are the only ones that can keep the balance of trade in the United States where it is," Wright said. He urged vocational- agricultural instructors and counselors to promote the necessity of young people acquiring the most education they can.

Gene Myracle, a Portageville farmer and 1973 graduate of UMC, emphasized the importance of flexibility when planning a career.

Those attending were divided into three interest groups for the remainder of the meeting: agricultural careers, job opportunities and college entry.

Heading the agricultural careers discussion was Kenneth Heath of Charleston, a farmer and representative of UMC. Heath said there is probably no vocation that has more management alternatives than farming nor more of a challenge in the management area. He added that there are many opportunities for careers in the agricultural field and the real consideration now was how to get people back into farming.

Earl Bullington, president of Caruthersville PCA, headed the job opportunities group. He also emphasized the large variety of opportunities in agribusiness other fields related to agriculture.

Fred Alexander of Portageville, assistant vice president of Sikeston PCA, lead the college entry section. He and Ray McClure, counseling coordinator for the College of Agriculture at UMC, reviewed the requirements for entry at UMC and the various fields and programs available.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was Sam Harbin, superintendent of Sikeston Public Schools.

Interstate 155 unwinds across Dyer County

BOOTHSPOINT, Tenn. – A new ribbon of interstate highway is slowly taking shape across the Mississippi River bottoms in west Dyer County.

The highway, Interstate 155, will cross the new Mississippi river bridge under construction at Boothspoint and will provide the only river crossing in a 219- mile stretch between Memphis and Cairo, Ill.

"Actually, we call the approach slab a bridge," said Paul Porter, carpenter foreman for Michael Construction Co. of Chattanooga.

"This stretch of four-lane divided highway is elevated from 16 to 45 feet from the ground. The section is constructed in 33 spans, supported by 99 piers," he said.

The one-half mile stretch will cost about $2,250,000 and will contain over 10,500 cubic yards of concrete and 3,280,000 pounds of reinforced steel.

"First we had to drive pilings and pour footings and erect the support columns. Now we are working on the deck of the highway itself," he said.

"We are running several months behind due to the recent flood," said William Tucker, field office manager. "We couldn't get supplies or our entire crew in to the work site during the high water. We couldn't pour concrete in December and January because of it."

Tennessee is ahead of Missouri in providing an approach road to the bridge, and the road builders believe it will be some time before the bridge will be in use.

"Personally, I think it will be 1977 or '78 before we will cross the bridge," Porter said. "The approach road on the Missouri side isn't scheduled to begin until June of this year."

A 5.5-mile stretch of the highway from east of the Main Line Levee to Lenox is under construction.

"This section is under contract to Boyer, Johnson, and Kimes of Jackson at a cost of $6,907,622," said High Griffin, records clerk for the state Department of Transportation.

"The final section of the highway will go through the Lenox hills to Tennessee 78, just north of Dyersburg. Bids for that section have not yet been let. All total, the interstate in Dyer County will be about 15 miles long," Griffin said.

Jackson bound to Circuit on weapon charge

NEW MADRID — Lee Boyd Jackson was bound over to Circuit Court for trial on a charge of exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon when he waived a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

Robinson makes MSWSCA history

The 1973-74 Missouri high school basketball campaign will be remembered as the season of the "firsts"!

It marked the first four class system for the state, the first basketball titles for Glasgow, Lilbourn and St. Louis McClurer, the first St. Louis large class champion since 1951, the first sophomore to ever be named to the all state team and the first all stater from Risco.

Not even Bill Bradley or John Brown was so honored in his second year of high school as was Lilbourn's Frankie Robinson, who was named to the Class AA all state basketball team. Bradley led Crystal City to the state championship and now plays professional basketball for the New York Knicks and Brown was the heralded star from Dixon that made University of Missouri history and now plays professionally for the Atlanta Hawks.

Robinson was among a contingent of five Bootheel athletes honored today by being named to the All-state basketball teams in their respectively class as selected by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association for the 23rd straight season.

Andy Smelser, one of nine underclassmen among the top 40 players in the state, became the first athlete ever from Risco to be so honored. The 6-foot-1 guard led the Tigers to their first winning season in 13 campaigns.

In all, four players repeated from last season, 31 were named unanimously and 16 Southeast Missouri athletes were honored by being named to the honorable mention list. There were over 1,100 players in the Bootheel to compete in basketball this season.

Southeast Missouri was blessed with great balance among its teams, as depicted by the fact that no team went into the regional unbeaten and the competition was so keen that a number of the eight finalist in each class could have placed among the state's four finalists.

Repeating from last season's all- state list were Glyndon Bennett of Lamonte; Tom Maxwell of Webb City; Tom Shultz of Springfield Glendale and Clay Johnson of Kansas City Manual.

Named unanimously were Glenn Walters of Greenfield; George Ridens, Norwood, Don Edwards, North Harrison, Louis Lucas, Bismarck; Lawrence Butler, Glasgow and Bennett of Lamonte in class A. Brad Gregory, Montgomery County; Terry Bogener, Palmyra; Jeff Jackson, Kelly of Benton; Teddy Greene, Kansas City Pem-Day; Joe Salanky, LaBlond; Kim Rohlfing, Lamar; Randy Towe, Nixa and Robinson of Lilbourn in class AA; Kevin Donahue, Kansas Cith StPius; Glen Doughty, Potosi; Brad Edmondson, Lafayette; Jerry Sander, Mercy; Tom Bloemke, Owensville Jimmy Dull, Buffalo and Maxwell of Webb City in class AAA. All 10 players in the AAAA class were unanimous.

ROY BOWMAN --- Sikeston's A-number-1 hustler for the past two years, has been accorded the honor of first team All-State in the 4-A classification. The slim 6-footer was a unanimous choice by the state's sportswriters and sportscasters.

The two- year starter's attributes are impressive. By far the best player on a poor team, Bowman was the top scorer, rebounder tops in the steal department and led the team's defensive charge. As a starter last year for southeast Missouri's Class L regional champs, Bowman, a 5-foot-10 forward, averaged nine points per game and four rebounds However, his main task on that team was defense, always drawing the opponent's top scorer. He wasn't lax on offense, hitting 46 percent from the field and 63 percent from the charity line, but his strength was his defensive game. His top scoring game was against Ricyland when he accounted for 18 points.

As a senior and actually standing a fraction under six feet, it was the underrated Bulldog's duty to move under the basket and punch, gouge, fight or kick -- any way to keep the opponents off the boards. In this department the 165- pounder had very little help, with the exception of that coming from teammate Ronald Marks, and his average of nearly ten rebounds per game (9.7) is outstanding considering the fact that he gave up as much as ten inches to opposing players under the goal. Hitting 49 percent from the floor Bowman was Sikeston's only consistent scoring threat, but the fact that he had the ball long enough to take just under 15 shots a game held his final average to 18.4, even yet a respectable mark. Fighting back from a six of 20 start, Roy hit nearly 80 percent the rest of the way for a season-ending mark of 67 percent.

Bowman's top efforts seemed to come against the best clubs. He scored 28 points and grabbed a dozen rebounds in SHS's 83-80 overtime upset of the eventual state champion Lilbourn Panthers. He also counted 28 against the area's class 3-A regional winners the Kennett Indians in an 11-point loss. He scored 27 in a loss to Meridian and 27 also in a romp over Richland. In that 96-65 win over the Rebs, he collared 15 rebounds while playing less than three quarters. But, his high on the boards was 17 against West Plains.

Possibly his best game of the year, however, was his last, as he led the Bulldogs to a near upset of the highly touted Cape Central Tigers with 24 points and ten rebounds against 6-foot-9 Stan Ray, also an All-Stater and 6-foot-6 Owen Suggs.

The list could go on and on. If he wasn't the Bulldogs' only hope on the boards, Roy would have controlled the ball on offense more, since he was Sikeston's best ballhandler. Probably the district's best athlete, Bowman was also given honorable mention to the Class 4-A All-State football team as one of the area's top linebackers.

Although the past season produced only a 7-14 Bulldog record, new SHS coach Buddy Spears' greatest problem will likely be the replacement of number 24.

FRANKIE ROBINSON --- This young sophomore is just beginning his career at Lilbourn High School and is the area's most talented individual basketball player. Frankie has the potential to be the most outstanding cager in the state before his high school career is ended two years from now. Most people who saw Frankie as a freshman realized that this young man had an outstanding future ahead of him. At 6-1 Robinson can do just about anything that has to be done on a basketball court. He has speed, quickness and jumping ability and all these talents made him the outstanding player in the class AA state tournament.

Frankie caught his coach, Larry Warren's, attention as a freshman last year and after only two games on the junior varsity team coach Warren promoted him to the varsity team where he became a starter until the last five games of the season when he became the sixth man on the team and gave the Panthers the scoring punch which propelled them into the class M state tournament.

Frankie averaged 16 points per game on the junior varsity before being moved up and averaged 16.8 points per game as a varsity player in his freshman year. He averaged 52.8 percent in field goal shooting and 50 percent from the free throw line and seven rebounds per game in the 20 games he participated in as a freshman.

This year Frankie averaged 43 percent from the field and 78.8 from the line with his rebounding coming up to eight per game. His average was 17.5 per game in a total of 32 games in leading the Panthers to the State Class AA title.

Frankie was named to the New Madrid conference all-star team for two hears and the Daily Standard all- star team the past two seasons.

JEFF JACKSON --- This 6-2 forward capped off an illustrious basketball career at Kelly High School by being named to the class AA all- state team this season. Jeff has been the Hawks team leader for the past two seasons having led coach Nick Lanpher's Hawks into the class M state tournament in 1973 and the class AA state tourney in 1974.

The big 6-foot-2 sharp shooter has been the team's leading rebounder for the past two seasons and has triggered the fast break offense of the Hawks. Jeff has been the man the opponents have feared the most when looking to defense the Hawks.

In his junior year Jeff averaged 18 points per game with a 67 percent average from the charity stripe in 25 games. Jeff averaged 19 points per game his senior season and 67 percent from the free throw line in 29 games. Jeff has always been around the 50 percent mark in fieldgoal shooting in his two varsity seasons. Jeff has hung up his basketball shoes and donned his baseball spikes as he is a top flight pitcher and plays shortstop when not on the mound.

Jeff was named to the all- conference teams his junior and senior years and to the Daily Standard all-star teams both years.

ANDY SMELSER --- This young man was better known for his ball handling and assists more than anything during the past two seasons. The 6-foot 1 guard led the Tigers to their first winning season in 13 campaigns with a 18.4 scoring average, 11 per game assist mark and seven rebound per game average. The two time Daily Standard all academic team member, hit 86 percent of his free throws and connected on 51.3 percent of his field goal attempts this season, hitting a high 34 points against Bernie. Andy ranks at the top of his class at RHS and is the first all stater to ever come out of Risco high.

STAN RAY --- The wheel horse of the Cape Central team this season, the 6-foot-9 junior is still growing and may be the tallest athlete to ever come out of the Southeast District. Ray averaged 18.6 points a game this season and led the Tigers to a 15-4 season, scoring a high 28 points in one game and pulling down 311 rebounds for the campaign. Cape went to the quarterfinals of the state tournament before being eliminated by St. Louis Central, the event's runnerup to state champion McCluer.

Perry brothers together again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gaylord Perry is happy to have brother Jim Perry aboard as a fellow member of the Cleveland pitching staff, but he has no intention of relinquishing his status as the Indians' top gun.

"Brother or no brother, Jim will have to fight me for No. 1," Gaylord said after the Indians acquired Jim from the Detroit Tigers Tuesday in a three-way deal that also involved the New York Yankees.

The Tigers sent Jim Perry to Cleveland and pitcher Ed Farmer to New York. The Indians shipped outfielder Walt Williams and rookie pitcher Rich Sawyer to New York while the Yankees dealt catcher Jerry Moses to Detroit.

In other spring training swaps, the Chicago Cubs traded catcher Ken Rudolph to the San Francisco Giants for rookie pitcher Willie Prall and the Cincinnati Reds purchased first baseman-outfielder Terry Crowley from the Texas Rangers.

The three-way trade put the Perry brothers — both former Cy Young Award winners — on the same team for the first time since Jim, 37, was a junior and Gaylord, 35, was a freshman in high school at Williamston, N.C..

Meanwhile, Dave Duncan, who will be catching the Perry boys, celebrated by driving in four runs with a homer and double in the Indians' 8-6 exhibition victory over the Oakland A's. Cleveland pounded Rollie Fingers for six runs in the sixth inning and two in the seventh, offsetting Oakland homers by Vic Davalillo, Pat Bourque and Bert Campaneris.

Elsewhere on the exhibition trail, two-run homers by Richie Zisk and Willie Stargell powered the Pittsburgh Pirates past the Montreal Expos 4-1. In a rematch of last fall's National League playoff rivals, the New York Mets trounced the Cincinnati Reds 7-1 as rookie Bennie Ayala drove in three runs and Ted Martinez hit a two-run homer.

The New York Yankees pounded Luke Walker for three runs in the sixth inning and two in the ninth and beat their former manager Ralph Houk and his Detroit Tigers 6-2. The Minnesota Twins lost for the 12th time in 13 spring games, bowing to the Atlanta Braves 3-1 on rookie pitcher Jamie Easterly's three-run double.

Jim Barr hurled five shutout innings in the San Francisco Giants' 8-3 triumph over the San Diego Padres and Houston's Dave Roberts blanked the Kansas City Royals for six in the Astros' 4-1 victory.

Rookie Mike Reinbach's RBI double and a sacrifice fly by designated hitter Tommy Davis accounted for two eighth-inning runs that lifted the Baltimore Orioles past the Texas Rangers 6-5.

The St. Louis Cardinals used four unearned runs and Reggie Smith's homer to edge the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5. Ron Santo drove in two runs with a pair of doubles to lead the Chicago White Sox over the Boston Red Sox 8-4 and five California pitchers limited the Chicago Cubs to five hits and the Angels won 5-1.

Essex romps

VANDUSER-- The Sikeston Old Timers bowed out of the Vanduser Men's invitational basketball tournament Tuesday night at the hands of Security National Bank 99-89 and First National Bank ran into a former bunch of prep all stars and suffered a 173- 42 thrashing.

Tournament action resumes tonight at 7 p.m. with Lilbourn battling Morehouse and Sikeston radio going against Vanduser.

In Tuesday' night's opening encounter, the Old Timers, apparently tired from Monday night's 123- 55 romp of the Parma Flunkies, fell behind 26- 9 in the first quarter and never recovered as Gary Owens and Morris Karnes paced a five player double figure attack with 27 and 26 points respectively. Terry Coleman and Neil Botsch had 19 each for the Old Timers.

Essex rolled up a 39- 8 first quarter lead with a devastating press and poured on the pressure the entire game in running up the score.

Harold Persful, former Richland prep all- stater, dumped in 48 points and got 38 points backing from Mick Lynch as seven players notched double figure marks. Lee Shell had 12 for First National's leading offensive effort.

Cardinals show power

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals surpassed their 1973 spring training home run output Tuesday while beating the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5 in a Grapefruit League match at Clearwater, Fla.

While winning 13 of 25 exhibition games during the pre-season campaign last year, the Cardinals collected only three homers. Reggie Smith's blast off Philadelphia's Aurelio Monteagud was the fourth for a Cardinal player during their current 6-4 citrus stint.

Smith's blast, which came in the seventh inning, was his second in as many games.

Coincidence

Local doctors attend seminar

Dr. Robert Bennett, Dr. Edward Scheu and Dr. Lemar Bechtold, Sikeston chiropractors, attended a two-day educational seminar held at Cape Girardeau last Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. Bennett and Dr. Scheu are members of the board of directors for the Southeast Missouri Chiropractors Association, sponsors of the seminar.

Highlight of the event was the participation of three representatives from General American Life Insurance Co. of St. Louis, carrier for Medicare in the eastern portion of Missouri.

The doctors learned there are approximately 20 million senior citizens now participating in Part A of the Medicare Program, hospital insurance. Of this group, 19.3 million are already enrolled in Part B, medical insurance, making them eligible for chiropractic benefits, as outlined in Public Law 92-603 as of July 1973.

Robt. W. Jacobs, director of Medicare relations and control for General American, explained that chiropractic services are covered in respect to treatment by means of manual minipulation of the spine to correct a subluxation demonstrated by x-ray to exist.

Jacobs further stated Medicare coverage provides for payment of 80 per cent of all reasonable and customary charges for covered services after a $60 annual deductible is paid by the patient.

Assisting Jacobs were Harry Riggs, professional relations director, and Dr. W. H. Holland of Collinsville, Ill., Medicare chiropractic consultant for General American.

Also on the program were Dr. James Mertz of St. Louis, a certified roentgenologist and member of the Chiropractic Board of Examiners and Dr. John Cullum of Marshall, Tex., a nationally recognized leader in the field of chiropractic.

Dr. Cullum traced the history of chiropractic since its beginning in 1895 to its present status as the world's second largest healing profession.

Dr. D. Warren Salzmann of Jackson, chairman of the event, reports there were 100 doctors, their wives and assistants in attendance from a four- state area in Missouri, Tennessee, Illinois and Kentucky.

Cafe open 30 years

Earl "Little Man" Lambert, a big name in local food, celebrated 30 years at Lambert's Cafe on South Main last Friday. Lambert and his wife have operated the restaurant since March 15, 1944.

(Daily Standard photo by Tim Ludwig)

Lamberts celebrate 30-year ownership

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lambert celebrated their 30th anniversary Friday as owners and operators of Lambert's Cafe, located on 209 South Main St.

Lambert said he purchased the cafe from Joe Ryan on March 15, 1944, and since that time has built a new kitchen on to the building and made other improvements.

He said the cafe used to stay open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. "But, because it was so hard to find help, we decided to change our work schedule and stay open from 5 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. seven days a week," he said.

At present, Lambert employes 14 people.

SeMo teachers attend workshop

CAPE GIRARDEAU—Many Southeast Missouri teachers participated in a grievance procedure workshop March 14 at Ramada Inn, which was sponsored by the National Education Association and state and local NEA associations in Southeast Missouri.

Dale Robinson, of Washington, D. C., NEA teacher rights staffer, made the grievance procedure presentation and coordinated the sessions on how to handle local problems.

An experienced expert on teacher rights, Robinson commented, "It was obvious from the questions asked by the participants and from the intense interest exhibited that teachers want and need a process by which their rights may be protected. They are a sensitive, dedicated group and, with their enthusiasm, I hope they'll succeed."

Mrs. Patricia O'Brien, chairman of Missouri- NEA, commented, "It is very evident from this workshop that teachers across Southeast Missouri have severe problems related to both the educational process and their jobs.

"They are in need of school district procedures for handling such problems, in many cases professional help in processing their grievances and in some instances even legal assistance. The Missouri- NEA with ten staff members, is prepared to assist locals in negotiating grievance procedures, and assisting individual teachers in the implementation of such procedures."

Wayne gets new look in 'McQ'

In the movie "McQ", John Wayne steps out of the saddle and into the role of Long McQ, a tough, dedicated detective who likes to play a lone hand. The action- detective drama, which has a PG parental guidance rating, opens Friday at Malco Twin Cinema II in Midtowner Village Shopping Center.

When McQ's best pal on the police force is murdered, McQ goes on a rampage and sets out to pin the act on the big city's dope king. He defies departmental orders in a clash of wills with his superior, played by Eddie Albert, uncovers police corruption and discovers infidelity and greed in a woman he might have loved as he tries to solve the crime.

The movie marked the first time John Wayne and director John Sturges have ever worked together. This is rather singular since both have established their careers on action and have long been regarded as tops in that phase of motion picture making.

Sturges, an Oscar- winner for "Bad Day at Black Rock," has masterminded such action epics as "The Great Escape", "The Old Man and the Sea", "Gunfight at the O. K. Corral", "Hallelujah Trail" and "The Magnificent Seven," which has become a classic in its own time.

Wayne, the star, who has roundhoused, stiff- armed, keel- hauled and blasted bad guys throughout his career, has made around 200 pictures which have grossed some $700 million.

Lawrence Roman wrote the screenplay for "McQ", a Batjac and Levy- Gardner Production for Warner Bros.

The film was shot on location, beginning in Seattle, Wash. For six weeks the company bounced all over town, in and out of hospitals, to boat docks, at marinas on Puget Sound, to used car lots and gas stations, office buildings, sleazy cafes and rundown bars, alleys, shops, night clubs and other places.

McQ battles evil

Fighting the forces of evil in civvies for the first time in many years is John Wayne, who stars in the title role of "McQ." The movie, a Batjac and Levy-Gardner Production for Warner Bros. opens Friday at Malco Twin Cinema II in Midtowner Village Shopping Center. The action- detective drama also stars Eddie Albert and Diana Muldaur and was directed by John Sturges from a screenplay by Lawrence Roman.

He was born Dec. 10, 1917 at Kennett.

On June 1, 1940, he married Savana Long, who survives.

Other survivors include two sons, Randy Nail of the home and Anthony Nail of Florissant; a daughter, Mrs. Brenda Little of Florissant; his mother, Mrs. Gelar Nail of Malden Route One; and two grandchildren.

Services were conducted Thursday afternoon in Jericho General Baptist Church near Risco by the Revs. Bill Nail and Gene Lancaster.

Burial was in Memorial Park Cemetery at Malden with Russell Mortuary of Gideon in charge of arrangements.

ELLA M. BOLLINGER

BENTON — Mrs. Ella Margaret Boilinger died at her home at 6:45 a.m. today.

She was born July 27, 1895 at Louisville, Ky., to the late Andrew and Emma Simms Devine.

On Aug. 1, 1913, she married Albert Bollinger at Blytheville, Ark. He survives.

Mrs. Bollinger was a member of St. Denis Catholic Church at Benton and a member of St. Ann's sodality of the church.

Surviving in addition to her widower are one son, Albert Bollinger Jr. of Benton; three daughters, Mrs. Iona Welter of Benton, Mrs. Marie Gauthier of Ferndale, Mich., and Mrs. Joann Knight of Clawson, Mich.; onc half- brother, Otis Husk of Bowling Green, Mo.; and 23 grandchildren and 16 great- grandchildren.

One son, Lyman Bollinger preceded her in death on April 24, 1968.

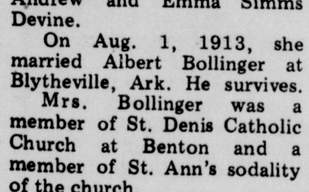
The body will be taken to Amick- Burnett Funeral Home in Benton.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Farm commodity futures prices were mostly uneven in early dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

On the opening, soybeans were unchanged to 3½ cents a bushel lower, March 6.39; wheat was unchanged to 8 higher, March 5.14; corn was ½ to 2½ lower, March 3.30 and oats were 1½ lower to 6 higher, March 1.50.



We Care

Death is the eternal inevitability, the most real of all realities. Yet, it is, perhaps, the hardest of all realities to face. The funeral director, more than most people, has a sympathetic understanding of the nature of grief. He is there, a consoling support, when a bereaved family needs someone to be there . . . Someone who cares.

Nixon speech highlights

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Following are highlights from President Nixon's Tuesday night speech and question-and-anwer session at the convention of the National Association of Broadcasters:

GASOLINE

"It will not be necessary for us to have compulsory rationing in the United States ... Effective this Sunday, I have rescinded the order which closes all service stations on Sunday ... (Energy) Director (William E.) Simon is increasing allocations to industry and agriculture so that they can have the necessary energy to operate at full capacity."

ENERGY LEGISLATION

"When we speak of an energy shortage, the greatest shortage of energy is the lack of the energy on the part of the Congress of the United States in getting together and passing the legislation that will produce more energy ... There are now 17 bills before the Congress which haven't been acted upon which would deal with the problem of increasing the supply of energy."

RESIGNATION

"When we speak of courage, if I could address that from a personal standpoint first of all, it perhaps would be an act of courage to resign. I should also point out, however, that while it might be an act of courage to run away from that job that you were elected to do, it also takes courage to stand and fight for what you believe is right, and that is what I intend to do ...

MIDEAST

"... I would only suggest that in terms of the future of Israel, it is much better to have the United States a friend of Israel's neighbors and thereby able to influence and perhaps restrain their policies rather than an enemy or with no communication ... But let me make one thing very clear. Being a friend of one of Israel's neighbors doesn't make us an enemy of Israel."

IMPEACHMENT PROBE

"The reason that we don't say, 'Come in and bring your U-Haul trailer and haul it out,' very simply is this: it is not because of a lack of desire to cooperate. It is, first, because we believe that the committee has enough information to conduct its investigation and to see whether any charges it may have against the President are true or false. Second, insofar as additional documents are concerned, in other words virtually a hunting license or fishing license, whatever you want to call it, within the White House is concerned, I am following the precedent that every president, Democrat and Republican since the time of Washington has followed, and that is of defending its confidentiality of presidential conversations and communications."

WATERGATE

"Dragging out Watergate drags down America, and I want to bring it to a conclusion. The (burglary) action was wrong, the action was stupid, it should never have happened, it should not have been covered up and I have done the very best that I can over the past year to see that it is uncovered. I have cooperated completely with not only the grand jury but also with other investigative agents and have waived executive privilege perhaps further than I should in terms of the office of the presidency in order to cooperate."

EUROPEAN RELATIONS

"... In the political and economic field, in the deals between the nine, the European Community and the United States, those discussions haven't gone well. They have not gone well due to the fact that the nine at times haven't consulted with us, we think, fully or in time, and second, in some areas, have actually taken a position which is hostile to the United States ... I believe that we are going to work out the differences that we have in the economic and political field."

FOOD

"The situation with regard to pressure on prices I would summarize in this way: It is not over. For example, the inflationary effects of the energy problem will continue to push prices up until we get more production. Insofar as food is concerned, the prospect is better. We expected a very big harvest of grain foods particularly, but as far as beef prices ... the problem is still going to be a very difficult one

.. While we will continue to have a difficult time as far as the consumer price index is concerned, through the balance of the second quarter and possibly into the third quarter, we believe that the upward pressure on prices will then begin to subside and in the latter half of the third quarter and in the last quarter that the food — not only the price level generally, but the food price level, even including beef — will be on a downward trend."

the target of a number of amendments.

A substitute bill was introduced to provide an exemption for prescription drugs and private educational institutions.

It was later amended to authorize the exemption for purchases of private not-for-profit educational institutions but not sales.

Another amendment adopted provided that purchases of farm machinery and machinery used in the production of food be exempted from sales tax collection.

The House approved a measure revising cigarette tax law. It would not change the rate of taxation but would make procedural changes.

Earlier the House concluded lengthy debate on a campaign reform measure by giving it first round approval.

House Republicans and Democrats came to an agreement on the bill, sponsored by Rep. Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, after a number of amendments were approved.

It provides spending limitations, enforcement by a bi-partisan commission and much stricter reporting requirements for political committees.

In the Senate an anti-kidnaping amendment was attached to a bill setting a 2-to-10 year prison sentence for those convicted of using a deadly weapon in a felony or misdemeanor.

Sen. Larry Marshall, R-Columbia, withdrew his bill as defense lawyers in the Senate began trying to build a case against it.

Another bill to allow the Department of Education to hire retired teachers as consultants was withdrawn after objections were raised.

Under the bill persons who have taught at least 15 years could receive up to $125 a month from the state's general revenue fund in addition to retirement income.

The total cost of the measure was estimated at more than $4 million a year.

The Senate gave first round approval to bills which would:

—Set up a Division of Youth Services to replace the state Board of Training Schools. The division would have the authority to close training schools and open new ones.

—Allow counties to set up a human resources agency to receive federal funds for economic development projects.

—Require criminal trials to start within 120 days of the arrest if the defendant is in jail and within 160 days after being released on bail.

Coffee Corner by Cherie

Many of you young mothers and housewives won't remember the Truman administration like I do, but since there has been such a Harry T. revival lately I thought it might be fun to also recall a bit about Bess and her famous Ozark Pudding. Mother made this years ago when Mrs. Truman had just given her recipe out, and I had forgotten all about it till this week, when I pulled it out and tried it on my family. I tell you true — those Democrats always did have a little something special going for them.

Bess's Ozark Pudding

Mix in order given, turn into a greased 8" pie pan & bake 350 for about 35 minutes. Serve warm with cream.

1 egg
3/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup flour
1 1/4 tsp. baking powder
1/8 tsp salt
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1 chopped & peeled apple
1 tsp. vanilla

My next door neighbor throws these biscuits together at the drop of a hat, so, the other day I watched and measured while she stirred up, and now we can all enjoy —

Judy's Biscuits

Cut 2 TBS. bacon grease into 1 1/2 cup of self- rising flour and a pinch of baking soda. Now add 1 full cup of buttermilk. Roll out and cut into rounds. Heat some bacon grease in a pan, flip both sides of each biscuit in grease, and then bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes or till brown.

My family saw the package of meat before I put it in the stew and wouldn't even taste it. Bret said he absolutely refused to eat "beef Posterior" stew, but their loss was my gain for it was delicious! So, if you're not squemish, throw the wrapper away before they see it and make

Ox Tail Stew in Wine

Brown your oxtails in butter in an iron kettle or flameproof casserole. Add, chopped onion, 4 cut-up stalks of celery, and 5-6 carrots cut in 1-inch lengths. Season with salt and pepper, then cover with red wine (no water), add a bay leaf, cover and simmer three hours. Now, add 8-10 small white onions, and 3 potatoes peeled and cubed, cook at least another hour. When tender, skim off fat, and add the juice of half a lemon, and some parsley. Serve piping hot with Judy's biscuits a nice tossed salad and a good bottle of Burgundy and you'll think you're somewhere on the French countryside enjoying a culinary delight. Au revoir!

Just received this in the mail and since I too am dieting, I'll let some of you skinny people try this.

Dear Madam:

You make the Dr. Atkins diet sound marvelous, but please tell us where we can find the copy. Also, to start right, I am throwing this bread receipe away, but it is too good to do that; so I'm sending it to you to print just for the ones, who loves good home made bread and can take it. To each, who tries this, they won't believe they can make bread till they try this.

BREAD STARTER

3 potatoes
1¼ cups boiling water
4 tablespoons sugar
1½ tablespoon salt
1½ cups cold water
1 cake yeast foam, or baker's yeast -- the granulated yeast is OK
1 cup lukewarm water

Pare potatoes and cut into small pieces and cook in the 1¼ cups boiling water. When they are tender, mash them in the water in which they were cooked. Add sugar, salt, and the 1½ cups cold water, or enough to make 3¼ cups liquid. Allow this mixture to become lukewarm, than add the yeast, which has been soaked in the 1 cup lukewarm water. In the morning, stir well and pour off 1 cup to serve as starter the next time; this leaves 3¼ cups of liquid. Add 3 tablespoons fat, 5 tablespoons sugar, and 4 cups sifted flour, or enough to make the dough stiff. Knead this till smooth and elastic. Set in warm place to rise. Work down once; when it rises again, put in pans and bake. This makes three loaves. The liquid yeast should be stored in a loosely- covered container in a cool place. Each time you bake, proceed as first time, except use the 1 cup of starter in place of the softened yeast.

A READER

Dr. Atkins Diet Revolution can be found in paperback form in almost any store that handles that type book.

Those of you who have ordered my cookbook, please bear with me — I am out at the moment but the book is being reprinted, and I should be able to fill your order sometime within the next two weeks

MOM, THE WOLF MAN AND ME
by Norma Klein
(Avon 18259/$.95
156 pp.)

Feminist, mother, and author Norma Klein describes herself as "trying to show life as it appears to be, and especially, to try and avoid pernicious moralizing ... and of course, as I am a feminist, I want freer, more interesting portraits of girls and mothers and aunts." She achieves both aims in her young adult novel MOM, THE WOLF MAN AND ME, a story of intelligent, independent females in a contemporary lifestyle. Thirteen year old Brett and her single, freelance- photographer, peace- marching mother live companionably together in New York. But when a man and his wolf hound — known from that moment on as the Wolf Man — appear on the scene, Brett fights against the impending changes which threaten her world.

MOM, THE WOLF MAN AND ME was first published by Pantheon in 1972; it is the first of four of Norma Klein's titles to appear in Avon paperback print. A second young adult novel, It's Not What You Expect, and two adult titles, Love and Other Euphemisms and Give Me One Good Reason, have also been purchased for Avon paperback publication.

The Lincoln one-cent piece became the first United States coin of a regular series to bear the portrait of an actual person.

ALABAMA COTTON FARMERS GOING TO OTHER CROPS

A movement is on in North Alabama by cotton farmers to go to soybeans and other crops. The farmers say they are disgusted with the declining cotton prices and the attitude of the mills and cotton buyers. The farmers feel that they need a price of at least 65 cents for their 1974 cotton. They do not want to plant an expensive cotton crop, and then watch a lack of interest by mills and cotton merchants run the price down.

One farmer who usually plants 800 acres of cotton says that he is planning to cut back to 400 acres unless the price goes up by planting time. Another farmer stated, "If all the cotton farmers would get together and cut back 25% or more it would serve the mills right. They don't care about farmers anyway!"

Other comments brought out the fact that many farmers may not get enough money to plant a larger crop. Another farmer said that he had the money but couldn't get enough fertilizer.

The North Alabama farmers urge other cotton farmers to speak up also. "With expenses as high as they are we must have a good price or go broke," stated one disturbed farmers. "If we don't look out for ourselves we are through!" another farmer said.

Sam Letson of Moulton, Ala. and a spokesman for the farmers said, "Very few farmers received the high prices last year that people read about. We intend to do what we've said. If cotton prices for 1974 do not go up we WILL not plant as much cotton!"

Cooking With Flair -- for spring

Thoughts of spring give vent to a host of refreshing ideas in the world of foods. Think of those sunny days ahead. This is the time when our instinct for self- preservation is what keeps most of us out of hot kitchens. Easy, convenient foods are the sign of our times; versatility, too, is another "plus" in today's pattern.

Rewarding moments at mealtime often arrive with dessert. After all, it concludes a gathering of the family -- or friends, for that matter. With that in mind, one of the cleverest tricks for this time of year is to assemble a collection of really good dessert recipes.

Orange Pineapple Bavarian is a marvelous dessert that gives the illusion of pure production and lots of time spent. But, that's not the case because it combines the best of two worlds in convenient foods: zesty orange- pineapple gelatin and canned crushed pineapple. A combination hard to beat, it can be enjoyed "family" style in an attractive large serving dish or individual serving dishes. Garnish with mandarin orange sections as a final "trim" to a no fuss or bother dessert.

Swift and cool -- that's the key action when you combine fruit flavor gelatin and fruits into delicious desserts. Keep a good variety of fruit flavor gelatin on your cupboard shelf. Those fresh spring and summer fruits are on their way.

ORANGE PINEAPPLE BAVARIAN

1 can (16oz.) crushed pineapple
3 tablespoons sugar
1 package (3 oz.) orange-pineapple flavor gelatin
1/8 tsp. salt
1 cup boiling water
2 cups prepared whipped topping

Drain pineapple, measuring juice. Add water to juice, if necessary, to make one cup. Add sugar to drained pineapple.

Dissolve gelatin and salt in boiling water. Add measured liquid, and chill until slightly thickened.

Fold in whipped topping and the pineapple. Chill again, if necessary, until mixture will mound.

Spoon into serving bowl or individual dessert dishes. Garnish with mandarin orange sections, maraschino cherries or nuts, if desired. Makes five cups or 10 servings.

One of your "basic" dessert successes is sure to be Orange Pineapple Bavarian that's a show- off. Luscious and cool, zesty orange- pineapple gelatin and canned crushed pineapple combine in a dessert reward to look like pure production. But that's not the case because it's easy to prepare but looks like much more. Add it to your basic treasury of favorite recipes.

That all- American favorite, ice cream, is the star of this easy- to- make dessert, Crispy Ice Cream Pie. The crust and topping feature crisp, fruity cereal which adds just the right amount of crunchiness to contrast with the ice cream.

Ice cream is one of the most popular of desserts and a year- round favorite with almost everyone. Fortunately for ice cream lovers, we've come a long way since Dolly Madison served "frozen pudding" at a formal White House dinner over 150 years ago.

Soon afterwards the popularity of ice cream spread throughout the land. Sundaes, sodas, and cones became part of the American scene.

In recent years pies have been added to the ice cream repertoire. They're a grand way to make a special dessert of ice cream and yet are easy to prepare. Especially easy is Crispy Ice Cream Pie.

CRISPY ICE CREAM PIE

2 cups crisp rice cereal, cocoa or fruity flavor
2 tbsp. butter or margarine, melted
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Combine cereal and butter; toss lightly to coat. Set aside one half cup. Press remaining cereal evenly into a well-buttered eight- inch pie pan.

Chill about one hour. Fill with ice cream. Sprinkle with reserved cereal. Freeze.

For ease in serving, dip pie pan just to rim in warm water for a few seconds; then cut and serve. Makes six to eight servings.

COLD SOUFFLE

¾ cup sugar
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/8 tsp. salt
1½ cups cold water
4 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1/3 cup orange flavored instant breakfast drink
4 egg whites
½ cup sugar
1 container (4½ oz.) frozen whipped topping, thawed*

*Or use two cups prepared whipped topping, or one cup heavy cream, whipped.

Combine ¾ cup sugar, the gelatin and salt in saucepan. Stir in water. Heat until mixture begins to boil.

Pour small amount of hot mixture into egg yolks, stirring constantly; return to remaining hot mixture in saucepan.

Cook and stir over low heat until mixture coats metal spoon -- about two to three minutes.

Remove from heat; stir in instant breakfast drink. Chill until thickened.

Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add one-half cup sugar gradually and continue beating until mixture will form stiff peaks. Fold into gelatin mixture; fold in whipped topping.

Pour into a one and one-half quart souffle dish that has been fitted with a paper collar, or into a large serving bowl.

Chill until firm -- about five to six hours or overnight. Garnish with toasted coconut, if desired.

Makes seven cups or 14 servings.

Senate tells Danforth to reverse milk rule

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Senate approved, with only one dissenting vote, today a resolution that tells the attorney general to reverse his opinion saying Department of Agriculture milk records do not have to be made public under the state's new open meetings law.

The resolution, introduced by Sen. Paul Bradshaw, R-Springfield, requires concurrence by the House.

It asks Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth to reconsider the opinion and if he doesn't, the legislature would consider the opinion a "nullity."

Only Sen. Ralph Uthlaut, R-New Florence, voted against the resolution in the 30-1 vote.

Bradshaw, who asked for the opinion, said the people had a right to know milk price markup information sent to the Agriculture Department.

Agriculture Commissioner James Boillot refused to release the information, saying department regulations prevented it and saying it should be kept confidential to ensure competition.

The House Agriculture Committee has begun an investigation of the milk pricing practices in the Springfield area, where milk is highest in the state in retail stores, despite the fact that it is one of the nation's biggest milk producing areas.

The opinion, Bradshaw said, "would make the sunshine law a nullity."

Danforth said the records are from private industry and thus are not covered by the open meetings and records law, passed last session. He suggested the news media bring a lawsuit.

The resolution says:

"Be it resolved that the intent of the 77th General Assembly that no rules, regulations or ordinances of any governmental body shall supersede the provisions of said law, and all records, meetings or votes of any public body shall be open to the public unless specifically exempted by said law; and that the information required by rules 2.06 and 2.07 of the regulations of the Department of Agriculture were not exempted and were not intended to be so exempted."

The opinion was obtained for Springfield Newspapers, Inc., which was denied the information from Boillot's office.

A measure to allow the Public Service Commission to regulate service areas of Rural Electrical Cooperatives gained first-round approval in the Missouri House Tuesday.

The bill is an attempt to prevent duplication of service by rural cooperatives and private electrical firms in suburbs and fringe areas of cities.

In some areas cities have annexed suburbs in which co-ops were serving customers, resulting in duplication of transmission lines.

A move to cut off debate on the measure was successful after an amendment to provide complete PSC control over coops was ruled out of order.

The House delayed action on a measure to provide an exemption from sales tax for materials used in repair and manufacture of school buses after it became

Bruce, Kilgore also remain on ballot

Houchin, Fulton lead field

John Houchin and incumbent Don Fulton led Tuesday's primary election results with over one- half the votes cast. Also receiving enough votes to be on the April 2 general election ballot were Mikell Kilgore and former police chief, Arthur Bruce.

The two candidates failing to receive enough votes to advance were James G. "Pete" Malone and Denny Cornwell.

The four candidates are seeking two city council seats. One held by Fulton, the other by Chuck Grant. Grant did not file for re-election.

There were 2,700 votes cast. Vote totals by candidates were Fulton, 713; Houchin, 687; Bruce, 512, Kilgore, 413; Malone, 312, and Cornwell, 64.

Voting was heavy Tuesday afternoon, after a light morning turnout, breaking a pattern which had developed in city voting during the past few primaries. During recent primaries, vote totals compiled by The Daily Standard at 11 a.m. represented approximately one- half of the total votes cast.

In this election, however, the 11 a.m. vote total represented about one- ninth of the votes cast.

At 11 a.m. Tuesday there were 306 votes cast out of a total of 2,701. In 1972, the totals were 305 and 1,190; in 1971, the total was 244 and 450.

Child killed in Wayne County accident

One person was killed, four seriously injured and three others received minor injuries Tuesday in three area traffic accidents, the highway patrol reported today.

Cheri Springer, 5, of Minneapolis, Minn. was killed at 11:40 a.m. Tuesday one mile south of Coldwater on Highway 67 in Wayne County, when the southbound car in which she was riding was struck head-on. The accident occurred when a northbound pick- up truck driven by Thurman Lloyd Jr., 39, of St. Louis attempted to pass another vehicle and struck a car driven by Lee Taylor Jester, 29, of Hugo, Minn. head- on.

Receiving serious injuries in the accident were Elsi Jester, 64, of Hugo, Minn.; Cleo McDuffee, 76, and Marion McDuffee, 66, of Flat River, all passengers in the Jester car. Jester and Lloyd both received minor injuries. All were taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff. The body of Miss Springer was taken to the Gish- Bowles and Coder Funeral Home in Piedmont.

Lloyd, formerly of Kennett, had been released Sunday afternoon from the Dunklin County Jail after paying the balance of a fine on a driving while intoxicated conviction. Upon his release, he told authorities he was returning to St. Louis where he had a job waiting.

Lloyd was arrested by Kennett police three weeks ago on the charge and pleaded guilty the following day.

No charges have been filed.

In a one- car accident at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, five miles south of Dexter on Highway 25, Grace Higgins Butler, 48, of Hickman, Ky. received serious injuries when the southbound car which she was driving ran off the road at an excessive rate of speed and struck a power pole. She was treated at Dexter Memorial Hospital.

George Wesley Toppins, 36, of Fredericktown, received minor injuries at 4:15 p.m. Tuesday in a two-car accident on Route N, two miles east of Saco in Madison County. The accident occurred when a car driven west by Robert Leroy Sutton, 25, of Annapolis crossed the center line on a curve and sideswiped the eastbound Toppins vehicle.

City urged to consider flood plaining plan

The city should consider adding a flood plain section to its zoning ordiances to help comply with what could soon become federal building requirements, Ken Waido of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, told the City Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday night.

Waido said the city may be required by law to require flood plain insurance to all buildings, homes included, which are built with federal financing in flood plains. The requirement could become effective in two or three years after government officials complete a flood plain survey of the entire United States

A flood plain survey of Sikeston has been completed and about half the city lies in the flood plain.

Waido said if flood plain insurance is required before someone can build on their property, the building will have to comply with the federal regulations. For instance, a house may have to be built five feet above the street line to comply.

Waido said the city wouldn't have to zone an area as a flood plain, because then the city would have to limit its use. Instead, he said, the city should make people aware of the danger of flooding.

Acting city manager, Bill Whitlock, said the regulations would cost the city a "tremendous" amount of money because Sikeston would have to hire at least two people to do nothing but give builders of the proper land elevations so they could build houses.

He said today he doubted the government could make the regulations stick because of political pressures.

In other action, Waido told the commissioners the city's revised comprehensive plan has been corrected and sent to press.

The commission tabled a request to rezone a vacant lot on Rueben Avenue, from residential to light industrial.

The commission approved the rezoning of land south of Highway 60 across from the farmer's market building from single family to commercial. The land is being turned into a 13- lot subdivision.

The commission accepted a plat change of Kirkwood drive. The drive had been built slightly different from the plat and the property owners want the plat reapproved.

Youth arrested after chase

CHARLESTON-- Terry Mayabb, 17, of East Prairie was arrested about 2:45 p.m. Tuesday on Route Z, southwest of East Prairie following a high speed chase by Charleston police officers Willis Cox and Walter Westerhold.

Mayabb, was observed speeding on South Main Street by the officers and the chase began after the officers pulled in behind Mayabb's car.

Charges of speeding, reaching speeds up to 105 miles per hour, in a 55 mile zone, improper passing, running a stop sign and careless and imprudent driving have been filed against Mayabb, who is being held in the Mississippi County Jail.

He will appear Thursday before Magistrate T. J. Brown Jr.

Fraud suspect jailed

BLOOMFIELD-- The Stoddard County Sheriff's Department is holding Kenneth Barnes, 28, of Hannibal in the Stoddard County jail on suspicion of fraud in connection with the purchase of three tractors which he supposedly purchased from area dealers with the intent to fraud.

According to a spokesman for the sheriff's department, Barnes would go to a dealership, purchase a tractor, write the dealer a check, and tell him he would pick up the tractor later. He would then return after the bank closed or early the next morning and pick up the tractor. The dealer would then run the check through the bank and discover the buyer was using the wrong name and had no account with the bank whatsoever.

The three tractors which have been recovered, were purchased from dealers in Charleston, Sikeston and Dexter. Barnes was apprehended Tuesday at Monroe City by authorities of that city and a Stoddard County sheriff's deputy. Other suspects are being sought, but no further arrests have been made at this time.

I wonder if the people who are in favor of amnesty have given consideration to what would happen if this country ever gets into a war, nobody would stand to be drafted, they would all go to some other country, since they think we will get amnesty when it is over with like they did in the Viet Nam war. We are not in favor of amnesty.

The energy industry is currently giving Americans a cram course in conservation.

On television especially, pretty ladies tell motorists how to get the most out of a gallon of gasoline, homeowners how to save heating gas or oil, housewives how to use a stove or washing machine economically.

It's all pitched to the understanding of a 12-year-old — but that's probably all right since it is said that this is about the intelligence level of the average person. And certainly Americans have never before had to worry about where their next gallon or cubic foot or kilowatt of energy was coming from.

The trouble is that these pitchmen are the same crew who not so long ago were urging Americans to use more of everything as if there were no tomorrow, pushing such hardly essential items — for example — as decorative outdoor gas lights.

Energy industry spokesmen remind us that they warned the nation about a coming energy shortage, and it is on the record that they did.

They just forgot to notify their advertising departments until lately.

WHEN GOVERNMENT CAN'T MANAGE

Economic conditions have reached a strange place. When we asked a local business house why we didn't receive a statement the 1st of the month, they said our bill was not sufficient to spend 10 cents to make out and mail it. We do well, these days, to make ends meet. Uncle Sam runs the post office, loses money on it every year and is constantly raising postage rates. The Shelbina Democrat's postage is increasing 40 per cent this year. Already it costs us $1.00 a year for postage alone, to say nothing of what it costs to hire someone to run the press, run the mailing machine, tie up the mail, carry the mail to the post office, carry the mail from the press to mailer and when we have two sections, which we frequently do, it takes three more girls to do the stuffing. Then, too, Uncle Sam runs the railroads and loses money on them regularly. The railroads which operate for themselves, are in such bad way financially, that good Uncle Santa Claus comes through the millions of dollars to keep them going. But for that matter, look at what Congress and the President are doing in the way of running the country. Every year there is a deficit of several billion dollars. Of course it is easy to just print some more money, but it is conceivable that as the debt reaches nearer the trillion mark, our money won't be worth much.

OUR DEPENDENCE UPON OTHER NATION'S MINERALS

The oil influence and its affect on inflation in the United States puts more than economists in a quandry since it prices consumers out of buying goods and services.

Although it may never come to that, the real question is whether or not the industrialized nations of Western Europe, America and Japan will allow a few Arabs states to control their economic destiny. No matter what the end result, Arab oil leaders have managed in a short time span to force a four - fold increase in the posted price of oil. Obviously, other producers os carce raw materials in Africa, Latin America and Asia are encouraged to try their hand at the same game. The accompanying table, courtesy of Science, illustrates our dependence upon other nations for specific minerals, with aluminum being the most widely used metal and platinum the most expensive.

ARTIFICIAL CONTROLS DISTORT ECONOMY SAYS TIRE EXECUTIVE

A supporter of free market controls, Riley labeled government controls as "artificial," and questioned their distorting effects on American industry's production and distribution.

"Beyond the lack of understanding," Riley said, "business is being blamed for inflation and our government has tried various forms of price control as a remedy."

Riley pointed out his concern for the lack of belief in America's economic system and in business and industry in general.

"The free enterprise system is the most efficient production system ever devised," and is needed more than ever "in a world where poverty and food shortages abound," he emphasized.

The free enterprise market is the best means ofr organizing and coordinating the skills and abilities of man, the Firestone executive said.

"Public misunderstanding of our market system shows itself in the constant attack on profits," Riley noted. "However, a continuous flow of profits is essential to capital formation on which jobs, taxes and rising living standards depend.

"There is no such thing as profitless prosperity," he said.

A FATHER'S HOPE

Most young people find that sometime in their early and middle teens, parents may become quite a burden and may stay that way for quite awhile. It is during this trying time that youngsters test their wings and out of the confusion gain some understanding of life. But now that higher education is being spread around a little more liberally than it used to be, most youngsters pack off to college just about the time they are at the height of their teen-age confusion. Very often the Ivied Halls do little, at least for the first two or three years, to nurture the tender seed of common sense and human wisdom which may be seeking to take root somewhere in the student's cranial area.

Mr. William F. McCurdy, an executive of one of the nation's largest retailing organizations, wrote a letter to his son on the occasion of his beginning his college career. His letter offers good advice for a lot of older people as well as those on the young side of the generation gap. He said, "Above all else we hope that you will not destroy the private enterprise system in America. We hope rather that you will understand it, appreciate it, learn to cherish it, because if you don't my son, I predict that 20 years from now you're going to have a son driving off to school during another generation gap and you're going to be defending your generation against his generation and he's going to be saying that your generation turned out to be a bunch of sociological weirdos who were the residual legatees of an economic Garden of Eden and had neither the good sense nor strength to preserve it." It is the job of young and old alike to see that this can never be said about any generation of Americans.

The secret of success in retailing is efficient, high-volume movement of goods to consumers -- which means moving them at minimum prices. Once a store falls short of meeting the tastes and pocketbook limitations of its customers, it is in trouble.

Supermarket News tells how one enterprising head of a retail management company has made a success of turning losing stores into "winners". His company recently purchased 49 southern California food stores that were viewed by the industry as losers. In other words, lack of customers, threatened store closures, lost jobs and eventually less consumer choice in the marketplace. However, the head of the management firm that took over the stores, according to Supermarket News, reports business picking up. In six months, they have experienced sales gains of 10 to 15 percent. He credits the introduction of trading stamps as an aid in building sales volume. In short, promotion.

Some consumerists say promotion and advertising push up business costs and hence mean higher prices to consumers. They never stop to think that the competitive nature of retailing automatically holds prices to a minimum. If the retailer is to do a good job and provide maximum service to consumers, he must endeavor to offer the consumer a little something extra. This is the purpose of promotion and advertising. Without it, there would be fewer stores and less freedom of choice in the marketplace.

GLOBAL BUSINESS SAID NOT TO BE INFLATION CAUSE

Only governments create inflation because they alone can print money, according to Walter Wriston, chairman of First National City Corporation.

He said that the world corporation is often cited as a cause of inflation by critics who ignore the fact that we in America have printed dollars too fast and that the Federal budget has been balanced only 7 times in the past 25 years.

"It is clear to those managing American - based multinational enterprises that a pure adversary relationship between business and government has become an anachronism in the 20th century. We have even failed to contradict the concept that a businessman who talks to his elected representative is somehow evil and that his voice should not be heard on matters of public policy," he said. Mr. Wriston spoke before the International Industrial Conference in San Francisco, Ca.

"On the other side of the oceans, the perception is also growing that a new age of mercantilism is not the answer to today's problems," he said. "The outworn doctrine of a controlled economy is becoming more and more a manifestation of the persistence of illusion over reality.

"The world corporation ... must play a constructive role in moving the world toward the freer exchange of both ideas and means of production so that the people of our planet may one day enjoy the fruits of a truly global society," Mr. Wriston concluded.

MACAP, CRICAP, AUTO-CAP, FICAP — the list of acronyms is growing, and for the benefits of consumers. All of these Consumer Action Panels have been created to deal with complaints that have not been attended to through regular channels.

The first one, the Major Appliance Appliance CAP, is now two years old, and has received an award for outstanding achievement in furthering consumer action in the marketplace from the Council of Better Business Bureaus.

Basically the way MACAP works is to send unresolved complaints to the participating trade associations concerned with the complaint. Many are resolved at this level. The rest go to the MACAP panel at the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers in Chicago. Although every effort is made to resolve the complaints, some do go unresolved.

Although statistics are not complete, a brief survey shows that appliance service complaints have dropped from first place in the last two years. This sould seem to indicate that MACAP has had some impact.

The carpet and rug industry and the automobile dealers have followed MACAP with similar programs. The newest to join the group is the Furniture Industry Consumer Advisory Panel sponsored by the Southern Furniture Manufacturers Assn.

In introducing the FICAP at a press conference in Washington, Virginia Knauer, Consumer Adviser to the President, suggested that these organizations could be improved by better informing the public of their existence.

However, one question frequently asked is whether or not the availability of such a complaint mechanism will increase unjustified complaints. Undoubtedly more consumer education is needed to assist these CAP groups in serving the public.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:

Curious Cash Flow Found in Bebe's Bank

WASHINGTON -- Congressional investigators have traced a curious cash flow through presidential pal Bebe Rebozo's Key Biscayne, Fla., bank in 1970-71.

The trail leads to Switzerland where money can be hidden in numbered bank accounts.

As part of the investigation into President Nixon's tax returns, the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation has checked a number of accounts in Rebozo's bank. It has taken lengthy statements from Rebozo.

Elaborate charts, covering two large desk tops, have been prepared showing how mysterious cash sums were routed through the bank, our committee sources say.

The investigators have not established that Rebozo himself has a secret Swiss bank account. But a committee investigator will fly to Paris and Geneva in an attempt to follow the flow of cash to Switzerland.

We were unable to reach Rebozo for comment. But he has denied to committee investigators that he has been involved in any improper cash transactions.

The investigators are trying to determine whether the sudden movement of cash through the Rebozo bank in 1970-71 is linked to efforts to raise money for the President.

It has now been established, for example, that the $100,000 cash gift from billionaire Howard Hughes was delivered to Rebozo in 1970. We have also traced at least two other smaller cash contributions to Rebozo, who was not an authorized Republican fund raiser.

He has insisted, nevertheless, that the contributions were intended for the President's political campaigns.

Both chairman Russell Long, D- La., and cochairman Wilbur Mills, D- Ark., have agreed that the committee should establish only how much more taxes the President owes and should not make any judgments about possible tax fraud.

Any evidence of fraud, they have agreed, should be turned over to the Internal Revenue Service and the House impeachment panel. As we have previously reported, the IRS has already assigned the Nixon tax investigation to the Intelligence Unit which handles criminal cases. Our sources say the unit funds criminal violations in about 50 per cent of its investigations.

FOOTNOTE: The committee staff members are amazed at the number of petty tax deductions Nixon claimed. Apparently, it was his policy to claim a deduction for even the most doubtful items.

In contrast, the staff advised Gerald Ford, before he became Vice President, that he could take a deduction for an item he questioned. Later, the IRS challenged the deduction. "If there is the slightest question about it," staff members recall Ford saying, "I would prefer to pay." He immediately wrote out a check for the amount rather than contest it.

POLITICAL PROSECUTIONS: In the wake of Watergate, federal prosecutors suddenly have started pouncing upon politicians. From Oklahoma to Missouri, top political figures have come under intense federal investigation.

The latest victim is the legislative assistant to Rep. Fred Rooney, D- Pa., a young man named William Kovacs who simply carried out the congressman's orders. He filed a suit to free impounded sewer and water funds on behalf of five townships in the home district.

For filing this Mandamus action, the young assistant has now come under criminal investigation. Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen notified Rooney in a February 19 letter that the Justice Department "has initiated an investigation to determine whether your legislative assistant, William Kovacs, has violated" the law.

It's true that the law prohibits government employes from acting as agents or attorneys in cases against the government. But an exception is made for an employe who acts "in the proper discharge of his official duties."

The criminal investigation, meanwhile, has effectively blocked the impoundment case.

After repeated unsuccessful efforts by Kovacs' attorney to arrange a meeting with Justice Department officials, Rooney put through a personal call to Petersen.

The congressman's notes on the conversation quote Petersen as saying he "is waiting for the facts" and doesn't want "to make any conclusion at this time." Rooney also quotes Petersen as wishing to check out the technicalities of the "goddamn statutes."

Petersen told us he did not recall his exact words but said "I'm not responsible" for what the law says. He hoped the matter would be resolved shortly, he said. Meanwhile, he stressed, it was "not the intent" of the probe to interfere with the laws t.

WAVE OF KIDNAPPINGS

This seems to be the season of kidnapping and extortion. The abduction of Patricia Hearst in California has brought home to the American people the horrors of this vicious sort of criminal activity. It seems to have sparked the latent criminal intents of potential abductors. Fortunately, the FBI and the police have made short work of most of the kidnappings and all but the Hearst case remain a nightmare in the sense that the victim has not been found alive and well.

There is amove afoot to reinstitute the capital punishment law in the case of kidnappings where the victim is killed. This does not go far enough. Abduction and resulting extortion should be punishable by death regardless of the fate of the victim. If potential kidnappers knew they faced death in the electric chair, they would be far less apt to carry out their schemes. Prison sentences have not served as an adequate deterrent

Kidnappings are just one phase of criminal activity that poses a threat to our society. It is time for the legislative bodies and the courts to eliminate legal loopholes now so wantonly used by felons to escape their just dues. The police agencies alone cannot get the job done. They need the tools of the law to help them. If you agree with this premise, you can do something about the crime situation. Tell your legislators you want tougher laws to protect the innocent and halt the criminal We can stop crime if we made a concerted effort to do the job.

Scott County assistance payments total $140,484

The Scott County welfare office disbursed funds totaling $140,484.09 in February, with the greatest part being paid to the aid to dependent children program.

State supplemental payments of $15,984 were paid to 509 persons. These persons were transferred to the new federal Supplemental Security Income payroll and also remained eligible for a supplemental payment from the state. These received payments under the new SSI program and the state supplemental program.

There were 295 persons who received state supplemental payments only, totaling $14,680. This group previously received old age assistance, permanent and total disability or aid to the blind and were not eligible for the new SSI program.

The Missouri Division of Welfare continues to administer through its county welfare office the aid to dependent children and general relief assistance plus three new programs since Jan. 1, which include the supplemental aid to the blind, supplemental nursing care and medical assistance programs.

A total of 812 families with 1,934 children received $94,036 in the aid to dependent children category, averaging $115.76 per family.

General relief funds of $15,275 went to 212 families, consisting of 233 persons, with a family check averaging $65.55 per person.

Child welfare services were provided for 144 children, and 214 children were given preventive services. Another $2,180.42 was expended from state- county funds for 30 children in foster care.

A total of 1,227 households, consisting of 3,888 persons, participated in the Food Stamp Program during January. They paid $55,144 and received $74,464 in bonus coupons, making a total of $129,608 in coupons issued to food stamp households.

Ex-newsman Huntley dies

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Former television newscaster Chet Huntley, who teamed with David Brinkley for 14 years on NBC-TV's nightly Huntley-Brinkley Report, died today.

Huntley, 62, had been suffering from lung cancer.

His widow, Tippy Huntley, said he died at 2:20 a.m.

He had been undergoing periodic treatment and underwent surgery in January.

Huntley resigned from NBC in 1970 to develop Big Sky Inc. of Montana, a massive resort and ski complex in the Gallatin Canyon southwest of Bozeman.

Huntley and Brinkley were accidentally teamed by NBC at the 1956 national political conventions. They went so well together their show became part of American folklore.

Besides top ratings, Huntley-Brinkley won every major television news award, including seven Emmies and two George Foster Peabody awards. Huntley was the serious one, Brinkley the wit.

When Huntley quit in 1970 to return to his native Montana, Brinkley said it was at last easier to tell which was which.

Huntley was born in Cardwell, Mont., son of a telegrapher.

He won a scholarship to Montana State College in 1929. Three years of pre-medical school led nowhere. Then he won a national oratory contest and a scholarship to the Cornish School of Arts in Seattle in 1932.

He switched to the University of Washington the following year and "since my dad was only working two days a week in the Depression" he supported himself by working as a waiter, telegram delivery boy, window washer and by selling pints of his blood.

In 1934 he got a $10-a-month job with a 100-watt radio station, KCBC, in Seattle. In addition to his salary, he got laundry service and was allowed to use sponsorship accounts to trade for food.

There was no wire service, so he bought a Seattle Star and rewrote it for a 15-minute newscast every night.

In 1938 he went to CBS in Los Angeles, as correspondent for 11 Western states. In 1951 he switched to ABC in Los Angeles, and four years later moved to NBC in New York.

Instead, he did TV commercials, taped a radio show, and promoted Big Sky a rich man's resort near Bozeman, Mont.

Know Your P's and Q's About Plate Collecting?

WANTED: One rare, gilt-edge plate in pure white translucent china – hand-painted with a garland of wild roses. You find this prize plate in a jungle of antiques at a garage sale and buy it for $10.

THE YEAR is 1979. An eager collector wants to buy your wild rose plate for $395! If you sell it, you suddenly make $385, because you knew how to spot a "sleeper" with true artistic worth and rarity.

FICTION? Not altogether. Today, many average people with only average incomes make money buying and selling collector's plates while they enjoy one of the most fascinating of all hobbies.

Will this plate multiply in value to 10, 15 or even 20 times its original price as other plates have done?

For instance, a china plate first priced at only $10 in 1969 now brings $245. Another exceptional plate originally priced at $25 in 1965 now sells for $1,050.

WHAT is the secret of success in collecting plates for profit? A suburban Chicago art dealer says, "The amateur collector needs professional guidance. You should know what to look for, when to buy, and much more."

According to this dealer, when you know the guidelines, there's much more than profit in collecting rare plates. There's pride of ownership almost unequalled by any other hobby. There's the joy of discovering stunning porcelain, glass, pewter, or silver plates for dramatic wall displays.

You can choose designs by Pablo Picasso, Grandma Moses, André Restieau, Andrew Wyeth, and other noted artists. There are all kinds of themes – nature scenes, stirring historical events, childhood vignettes, portraits of world heros, and much more.

FREE INFORMATION. To help you get started in the rewarding hobby of plate collecting, this dealer now offers free information on request. It tells how to choose potentially priceless heirlooms for as little as $15 or $20. Individuals (not dealers) are invited to send for the free facts without obligation. To get yours, send your name, address, and zip code to Bradford Galleries, 954-L Sunset Ridge, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. Please mail your request by March 30, 1974, to reserve your free copy while the supply lasts.

It has been estimated there are about 4.7 million bee colonies in the United States, with the average colony yielding 41.9 pounds of honey a year.

The serving table was covered in white and held a three- tiered wedding cake decorated in red and white and topped by a clutter of bells with the numerals 35 on top. A flower arrangement of red roses and pink carnations and gifts from friends decorated the table.

During the celebration, the Markses repeated their wedding vows with the Rev. Paul Walker serving as officiating minister. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Friedline of East St. Louis, Ill., brother and sister- in- law of Mrs. Marks, served as attendants.

Out- of- town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Bob Skaggs, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Robison, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Robison and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Robison of Hurst, Ill., and Mrs. Dorothy Kelly and her daughter and granddaughter of McClure, Ill.

Miss Ruhl, Michael Britt exchange vows

First Christian Church was the setting Feb. 23 for the candlelight wedding of Barbara Ann Ruhl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Ruhl, 128 Norval Ave., and Michael Keith Britt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Britt, 235 Helen Ave.

The Rev. Paul Walker performed the double- ring ceremony, and Mrs. Jean Livingston provided appropriate organ music.

The couple exchanged vows at the altar with a background of three candelabras. Two pedestals at the front of the church were decorated with arrangements of white mums with blue centers.

The three candelabras and two outside candles in the unity candelabra were lit by two of the bride's sisters, Marilyn Ruhl of Springfield and Judy Ruhl of Sikeston. They wore light blue gowns with white lace- covered cuffs, high necks and belts. The dresses featured sheer puffed sleeves, fitted belts and slight fullness in the skirts.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a fitted, white velvet gown with a V- neck, straight sleeves and a full skirt. The veil was two tiered and edged in lace with a full train edged in matching lace. The bride's bouquet was white baby sweetheart roses edged in blue baby's breath. Her only jewelry was a blue Star of David necklace.

The groom wore an ivory white tuxedo with black velvet trim. He also wore a boutonniere to match the bride's bouquet.

Groomsmen were Timothy Britt of Sikeston, brother of the groom, and Terry Russell of Richland. They also served as ushers.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The reception table was decorated with a wedding tablecloth and a three- tiered wedding cake on the center of the table. The cake was white, decorated with blue roses and white swans, and was topped with a miniature bride and groom under an arch. On one end of the table was a cut glass punch bowl set, and on the other end was a coffee service set.

Servers were the bride's sisters, Marilyn, Judy and Debbie Ruhl, and the groom's sister, Cynthia Ann Britt.

Out- of- town guests were:

The Rev. and Mrs. John Bell of Caruthersville; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Verble of Cairo, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Russell of Richland; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Clark of Fredericktown; Mr. and Mrs. Al Rhoads of Bridgeton; Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ray Powers of Dresden, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Weinrich of Perryville; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Duty of Bloomfield; Michael White of Ava; Mr. and Mrs. B. Thompson of New Madrid.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Slaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Criger and Miss Helen Slaughter of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Britt, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Britt and Mrs. Jake Walker and Mrs. Mae Britt of East Prairie; and Mr. and Mrs. Steven Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Scott James, Dr. and Mrs. Jim Tom Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Loiseau and Jim Ervin of Cape Girardeau.

On Feb. 3, Miss Ruhl was surprised with a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Debra Verble, Miss Sharon Weinrich and Miss Karen Weinrich. The guests at the shower were residents of Dearmont A- 2 school system and other friends. Refreshments were served from a table decorated in the bride's colors.

On Feb. 8, Miss Ruhl was honored with a shower given by Mrs. Bob Hatley, Mrs. Willard McDaniel and Mrs. Don Miller. Decorations in the First Christian Church fellowship hall followed the bride's color scheme.

On Feb. 9, the Mary Magdelene Guild feted the bride with a shower at Illinois Avenue General Baptist Church. Guests at the shower were members of the church. Refreshments and decorations followed a red and white Valentine color scheme.

On Feb. 22, the groom's parents were hosts for a rehearsal dinner for members of the wedding party at Two-Tony's Smorgasbord. The wedding color scheme was carried out in table and room decorations. Miss Ruhl and Britt presented gifts of jewelry to their attendants.

Ann Landers

New school is for homosexuals only

Dear Ann Landers: I am a homosexual. I've been hearing some talk about a new school, soon to be opened, called Lavender University. It is, of course, for homosexuals only, both male and female, and I think it's a fantastic idea. Unfortunately, there are very few places besides gay bars where lonesome homosexuals can meet one another.

Will you please get some information on Lavender U. and give me some facts? Thank you very much. And thank you, too, for your enlightened approach to those of us who are "different."-- Bay Area Admirer

Dear Bay: "Lavender U." is scheduled to open in San Francisco later this year. The school will offer no degrees and will have no campus. The fees will be established by the faculty. Many classes will be held in the homes of the instructors until they are able to construct or buy a building.

The courses they plan to offer are Greek literature, metaphysics, photography, opera appreciation, modern dance, jewelry- making, and hiking.

One of the problems the innovators anticipate is that some heterosexuals might try to enroll. They say they want only homosexuals, but there is no way to make a person prove he is gay. I hope they don't spend too much time worrying about this "obstacle" since I seriously doubt that a school of this type would attract many straights.

Dear Ann Landers: Whenever we meet another couple for cocktails, and the check arrives, my husband manages to leaf through his wallet just long enough so that the other fellow pays it.

This embarrasses me to death. How can I get this clip artist to pay our way? Please suggest something subtle-- Married To A Sponge

Dear Married: Sorry, but a guy whose hide is as thick as your husband's wouldn't respond to anything subtle. You'll have to hit him with a sledge hammer. Suggested line when the check appears: "Oh, no-- THIS time my husband is going to be the host. We were YOUR guests last time." Keep track and make the sponge alternate, whether he likes it or not.

Dear Ann Landers: My boyfriend and I are both 17. We've been hassling about drugs and I need somebody on my side.

I tried grass a year ago. It was fun but I got mixed up a lot and forgot things, especially what time it was. My parents raised hell with me when I came in past curfew one night and I decided to knock it off.

Now my boyfriend is into acid and insists there is nothing wrong with it. He claims "recent studies" have turned up no evidence that LSD is damaging to the chromosomes. He keeps bugging me to try it.

I've heard that kids have died from bad trips. Let's have some facts.--N.N.P.

Dear N.: Your boyfriend is wrong. There is still some questions about chromosomal damage from LSD (and also pot). The dangerous aspects of dropping acid are the depressions following the euphoria and the hallucinations which sometimes return after several months. Many acid freaks have jumped off rooftops (thought they could fly), and walked into traffic and in front of trains (believing they were indestructible). LSD is dynamite. It can blow your mind. Leave it alone.

Scout leaders plan summer events

Girl Scout neighborhood meetings were held March 6 and 13. Junior- Cadette-Senior leaders met March 6 at First United Methodist Church, with Mrs. James Handy Moore presiding and Brownie leaders met at 112 Thomas St., with Mrs. Fred Thornton as chairman.

Cotton Boll Council Round- up, scheduled May 3, 4 and 5 at Sweetwater Farm near Clarkton, is designed for Junior, Cadette and Senior troops. Each Cadette troop will present a demonstration of a craft or skill based on American heritage on Saturday afternoon of the round- up.

Day camp, which includes troops from Matthews, Morley and Vanduser, as well as Sikeston, is scheduled at the Bill Lewis farm June 3- 7. The registration fee is $4.50 and registration deadline is May 1. Mrs. Bill Lewis, director of Day Camp '74, wants high school girls and adults interested in helping with the day camp to call her immediately. Her phone number is 471- 9525.

Girl Scout Camp Latonka will offer four sessions of established troop camping this summer from June 16 to Aug. 8. Mrs. Pat Lea and several Cadette scouts (in charge of camp promotion) will visit Brownie and Junior troops in the next four weeks to explain what Camp Latonka offers girls. Riflery, horseback riding, water skiing and bicycling will be available.

Miss Ilena Aslin, director of Cotton Boll Council, reported that 1,942 cases of cookies were sold in Sikeston during the recent sale, compared with 1,669 cases in 1973. Most of the cookie money is used to build and maintain Camp Latonka. Improvements include a trailer being refurbished to be used as an infirmary, the trading post being expanded and improved, the "old house" being made into a winterized troop house and a new pier and two boat ramps being constructed.

A values clarification workshop will be offered Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at First Christian Church in Poplar Bluff. All leaders and interested adults are requested to attend. To register, contact Mrs. Moore or Mrs. Thornton.

Caring for your new baby

Sensitivity helps child notice things

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series of articles presented by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare to describe some of the things about normal babies that commonly worry parents -- telling what to do or not to do about them. The articles should answer many questions about what to expect of a new baby, and give simple instructions about solving problems that most parents face during their baby's first year of life. This section of the series concerns the development of a child after the first few weeks when he is visibly growing every day, developing a few rudimentary language skills and becoming more mobile.

TEMPERAMENT — Part 2

Approach or withdrawal: How does your baby usually react the first time to new people, new foods, new toys and new activities? Does he reach out for them and seem pleased, or does he shy away and fuss? Approach and withdrawal differs from adaptability in that it describes the baby's first reaction to something new rather than the length of time or number of tries it takes him to get used to it.

The baby who immeciately reaches out for something seems easier to deal with at first. But the baby who withdraws slightly from a new situation may be much easier to keep out of trouble and danger when he is a little older. Again, either characteristic is good or bad, but they do require different handling.

Threshold level or sensitivity: Is you baby very aware of slight noises, slight differences in temperature, slight differences in tastes or in different types of clothing? Will he wake up at the slightest noise, or can he sleep through anything? Do bright lights or sunlight make him blink or cry?

If he doesn't like a new food, does he notice the difference when you mix a little of it with an old food that he does like? Does he let you know every time his diapers are wet or does he ignore it?

Very high sensitivity may make your job more difficult at first, but the child who notices small differences may learn some things faster or more easily at a later age.

Extreme insensitivity to sounds may be caused by deafness, not temperament. You should certainly mention it to your doctor.

Intensity of reaction: How strong or violent are his reactions when he is pleased or displeased? Does he laugh and wriggle all over or just smile when he is pleased? Does he frown and fuss quietly or does he scream loudly when he is upset? If he doesn't like a new food, does he quietly turn his face away, or does he hit the spoon away, spit out the food and cry?

If your baby reacts very strongly and intensely, you will want to teach him that he can get what he wants without being quite so loud and active. Don't let him learn that you only pay attention to him when he reacts very strongly. Of course, his active way of showing pleasure will make up for some of his loud crying when he is disappointed.

Distractability: How likely is your baby to turn his attention from what he is doing to something new? If you are feeding him, will he keep on sucking no matter what happens? Or will he stop and pay attention when a door opens or someone else comes into the room?

If he is hungry, will a toy keep him quiet for a few minutes while you are getting the bottle, or will he just keep on demanding his bottle? If he is playing with his rattle, will he quickly turn his attention to a new sound or sight?

You may want to feed him in a quiet place if he is very distractable and give him just one or two toys at any one time. If he is not at all distractable, you will have to be very firm when you want him to change from one thing to another.

Positive or negative mood: How much of the time does your baby show friendly, pleasant, joyful behavior as compared to unpleasant crying, fussy or unfriendly behavior? This means not just his first reaction to new situations, or too the times when he is actually hungry or uncomfortable it means the way he seems to be during most of the day.

His mood may be expressed quietly with a frown or a whimper, or with a smile and a twinkling eye. Or it may be loud screaming or a deep laugh.

A baby with a negative mood is much harder for anyone to deal with. You will have to realize that the few bright sposts in his day mean you are doing a lot of things the right way. You must remember that his general unpleasantness does not necessarily mean that you are doing something wrong. He will wear you out much more quickly.

You may need more recreation and moretime away from him. You will have to learn to ignore some of his crying and fussing once you have made sure he really doesn't need anything at the moment and has no reason to be uncomfortable.

Attention span and persistence: How long will he stick with something he is doing? Will he continue to try even if it is difficult for him? Even if you try to stop him? If he reaches for something out of reach, will he keep trying? Or give up quickly? Will he keep watching something above his crib for 10 to 15 minutes; or will he turn to something else after a few minutes.

Attention span and persistence mean how long he sticks with something on his own, not how easy it is to distract him with something new or different.

You will be pleased when he persists in things you like, but not pleased when he persists in making trouble! You will want to be firm and patient and use distraction in getting a persistent child to change activities. You will want to encourage and praise a nonpersistent child for sticking with a useful activity.

If you pay attention to how hour child measures up in each of these traits, you will be able to help him in the ways he needs help. And you will be much more certain that what you are doing is right for him. You would be much less likely to think that he is a "bad" baby or that you are a "bad" mother.

Ag career meeting held here

Counselors, vocational-agricultural instructors and students from a nine- county Bootheel area gathered at the Ramada Inn Tuesday night for a mini- workshop in agricultural careers.

The dinner meeting was hosted by the Sikeston and Caruthersville Production Credit associations and was attended by about 35 persons from counties of Scott, Stoddard, Mississippi, New Madrid, Bollinger, Cape Girardeau, Dunklin and Butler and from the University of Missouri- Columbia.

Homer C. Folks, associate dean of the college of agriculture at the University of Missouri- Columbia, in speaking on the subject ''Together Toward Tomorrow", said "We hold to the idea that an education ... ought to enable you to realize your goals, dreams and objectives"

He explained that education in agriculture is no different than the education in anything else. "It's a matter of teaching young people new ideas and packagaing them in such a way that young people can relate these back to what they know and ... so that it becomes something real for the individual," he said.

Folks told the instructors and counselors, "In the process of education I would hope that ... we're all helping young people move a little bit closer toward their objectives. Education should be geared to helping the individual shape his talents in such a way that he can be productive ... and he can be comfortable in living within social modes."

Robert A. Wright, president of the Sikeston PCA, spoke on "The Business World Beyond the Campus," accented with a slide presentation of some of the successful young farmers in the area, and how important an education is in reaching goals. Wright said he could not "overemphasize the need for maximum education at all levels."

''We (the farming community) are the only ones that can keep the balance of trade in the United States where it is," Wright said. He urged vocational- agricultural instructors and counselors to promote the necessity of young people acquiring the most education they can.

Gene Myracle, a Portageville farmer and 1973 graduate of UMC, emphasized the importance of flexibility when planning a career.

Those attending were divided into three interest groups for the remainder of the meeting: agricultural careers, job opportunities and college entry.

Heading the agricultural careers discussion was Kenneth Heath of Charleston, a farmer and representative of UMC. Heath said there is probably no vocation that has more management alternatives than farming nor more of a challenge in the management area. He added that there are many opportunities for careers in the agricultural field and the real consideration now was how to get people back into farming.

Earl Bullington, president of Caruthersville PCA, headed the job opportunities group. He also emphasized the large variety of opportunities in agribusiness other fields related to agriculture.

Fred Alexander of Portageville, assistant vice president of Sikeston PCA, lead the college entry section. He and Ray McClure, counseling coordinator for the College of Agriculture at UMC, reviewed the requirements for entry at UMC and the various fields and programs available.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was Sam Harbin, superintendent of Sikeston Public Schools.

Interstate 155 unwinds across Dyer County

BOOTHSPOINT, Tenn. — A new ribbon of interstate highway is slowly taking shape across the Mississippi River bottoms in west Dyer County.

The highway, Interstate 155, will cross the new Mississippi river birdge under construction at Boothpoint and will provide the only river crossing in a 219- mile stretch between Memphis and Cairo, Ill.

"Actually, we call the approach slab a bridge," said Paul Porter , carpenter foreman for Michael Construction Co. of Chattanooga.

"This stretch of four-lane divided highway is elevated from 16 to 45 feet from the ground. The section is constructed in 33 spans, supported by 99 piers," he said.

The one-half mile stretch will cost about $2,250,000 and will contain over 10,500 cubic yards of concrete and 3,280,000 pounds of reinforced steel.

"First we had to drive pilings and pour footings and erect the support columns. Now we are working on the deck of the highway itself," he said.

"We are running several months behind due to the recent flood," said William Tucker, field office manager. "We couldn't get supplies or our entire crew in to the work site during the high water. We couldn't pour concrete in December and January because of it."

Tennessee is ahead of Missouri in providing an approach road to the bridge, and the road builders believe it will be some time before the bridge will be in use.

"Personally, I think it will be 1977 or '78 before we will cross the bridge," Porter said. "The approach road on the Missouri side isn't scheduled to begin until June of this year."

A 5.8-mile stretch of the highway from east of the Main Line Levee to Lenox is under construction.

"This section is under contract to Boyer, Johnson, and Kimes of Jackson at a cost of $6,907,622," said High Griffin, records clerk for the state Department of Transportation.

"The final section of the highway will go through the Lenox hills to Tennessee 78, just north of Dyersburg. Bids for that section have not yet been let. All total, the interstate in Dyer County will be about 15 miles long," Griffin said.

NEW MADRID — Lee Boyd Jackson was bound over to Circuit Court for trial on a charge of exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon when he waived a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court before Judge Leo Hedgepeth.

Jackson is accused of exhibiting a knife in a threatening manner Saturday before Jerry Hayes. Jackson was released after he posted $500 bond.

Three minors, Joseph Allen Hall, John Andrew Higgerson and Mark Kevin Phillips, were assessed a total of $165 for fines and costs when they pleaded guilty to illegal possesion of beer. Each was given a six- months suspended jail sentence and placed on probation for six months.

Danny Hoard and Danny Hensley charged with petit larceny in the theft of gasoline valued at $5 belonging to Freeman Dill were fined $46.

Bobby Dee Gray paid $45 fine on charges of failure to yield right- of- way and failure to transfer license. Joanne Gardner was fined $40 on careless and imprudent driving charge.

Fined $20 each were Darrell Eugene Hoxworth, charged with operating a vehicle with an improper exhaust system, and Leroy Reed, charged with operating an improperly registered vehicle.

Assessed fines on speeding charges were Birdie Beatrice Duff, $40; William Edward Pearson, $30; and James Donald Turner, $27.

Robinson makes MSWSCA history

The 1973-74 Missouri high school basketball campaign will be remembered as the season of the "firsts"!

It marked the first four class system for the state, the first basketball titles for Glasgow, Lilbourn and St. Louis McClurer, the first St. Louis large class champion since 1951, the first sophomore to ever be named to the all state team and the first all stater from Risco.

Not even Bill Bradley or John Brown was so honored in his second year of high school as was Lilbourn's Frankie Robinson, who was named to the Class AA all state basketball team. Bradley led Crystal City to the state championship and now plays professional basketball for the New York Knicks and Brown was the heralded star from Dixon that made University of Missouri history and now plays professionally for the Atlanta Hawks.

Robinson was among a contingent of five Bootheel athletes honored today by being named to the All-state basketball teams in their respectively class as selected by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association for the 23rd straight season.

Andy Smelser, one of nine underclassmen among the top 40 players in the state, became the first athlete ever from Risco to be so honored. The 6-foot-1 guard led the Tigers to their first winning season in 13 campaigns.

In all, four players repeated from last season, 31 were named unanimously and 16 Southeast Missouri athletes were honored by being named to the honorable mention list. There were over 1,100 players in the Bootheel to compete in basketball this season.

Southeast Missouri was blessed with great balance among its teams, as depicted by the fact that no team went into the regional unbeaten and the competition was so keen that a number of the eight finalist in each class could have placed among the state's four finalists.

Repeating from last season's all- state list were Glyndon Bennett of Lamonte; Tom Maxwell of Webb City; Tom Shultz of Springfield Glendale and Clay Johnson of Kansas City Manual.

Named unanimously were Glenn Walters of Greenfield; George Ridens, Norwood, Don Edwards, North Harrison, Louis Lucas, Bismarck; Lawrence Butler, Glasgow and Bennett of Lamonte in class A. Brad Gregory, Montgomery County; Terry Bogener, Palmyra; Jeff Jackson, Kelly of Benton; Teddy Greene, Kansas City Pem-Day; Joe Salanky, LaBlond; Kim Rohlfing, Lamar; Randy Towe, Nixa and Robinson of Lilbourn in class AA; Kevin Donahue, Kansas Cith StPius; Glen Doughty, Potosi; Brad Edmondson, Lafayette; Jerry Sander, Mercy; Tom Bloemke, Owensville Jimmy Dull, Buffalo and Maxwell of Webb City in class AAA. All 10 players in the AAAA class were unanimous.

ROY BOWMAN --- Sikeston's A-number-1 hustler for the past two years, has been accorded the honor of first team All-State in the 4-A classification. The slim 6-footer was a unanimous choice by the state's sportswriters and sportscasters.

The two- year starter's attributes are impressive. By far the best player on a poor team, Bowman was the top scorer, rebounder tops in the steal department and led the team's defensive charge. As a starter last year for southeast Missouri's Class L regional champs, Bowman, a 5-foot-10 forward, averaged nine points per game and four rebounds However, his main task on that team was defense, always drawing the opponent's top scorer. He wasn't lax on offense, hitting 46 percent from the field and 63 percent from the charity line, but his strength was his defensive game. His top scoring game was against Ricyland when he accounted for 18 points.

As a senior and actually standing a fraction under six feet, it was the underrated Bulldog's duty to move under the basket and punch, gouge, fight or kick -- any way to keep the opponents off the boards. In this department the 165- pounder had very little help, with the exception of that coming from teammate Ronald Marks, and his average of nearly ten rebounds per game (9.7) is outstanding considering the fact that he gave up as much as ten inches to opposing players under the goal. Hitting 49 percent from the floor Bowman was Sikeston's only consistent scoring threat, but the fact that he had the ball long enough to take just under 15 shots a game held his final average to 18.4, even yet a respectable mark. Fighting back from a six of 20 start, Roy hit nearly 80 percent the rest of the way for a season-ending mark of 67 percent.

Bowman's top efforts seemed to come against the best clubs. He scored 28 points and grabbed a dozen rebounds in SHS's 83-80 overtime upset of the eventual state champion Lilbourn Panthers. He also counted 28 against the area's class 3-A regional winners the Kennett Indians in an 11-point loss. He scored 27 in a loss to Meridian and 27 also in a romp over Richland. In that 96-65 win over the Rebs, he collared 15 rebounds while playing less than three quarters. But, his high on the boards was 17 against West Plains.

Possibly his best game of the year, however, was his last, as he led the Bulldogs to a near upset of the highly touted Cape Central Tigers with 24 points and ten rebounds against 6-foot-9 Stan Ray, also an All-Stater and 6-foot-6 Owen Suggs.

The list could go on and on. If he wasn't the Bulldogs' only hope on the boards, Roy would have controlled the ball on offense more, since he was Sikeston's best ballhandler. Probably the district's best athlete, Bowman was also given honorable mention to the Class 4-A All-State football team as one of the area's top linebackers.

Although the past season produced only a 7-14 Bulldog record, new SHS coach Buddy Spears' greatest problem will likely be the replacement of number 24.

FRANKIE ROBINSON --- This young sophomore is just beginning his career at Lilbourn High School and is the area's most talented individual basketball player. Frankie has the potential to be the most outstanding cager in the state before his high school career is ended two years from now. Most people who saw Frankie as a freshman realized that this young man had an outstanding future ahead of him. At 6-1 Robinson can do just about anything that has to be done on a basketball court. He has speed, quickness and jumping ability and all these talents made him the outstanding player in the class AA state tournament.

Frankie caught his coach, Larry Warren's, attention as a freshman last year and after only two games on the junior varsity team coach Warren promoted him to the varsity team where he became a starter until the last five games of the season when he became the sixth man on the team and gave the Panthers the scoring punch which propelled them into the class M state tournament.

Frankie averaged 16 points per game on the junior varsity before being moved up and averaged 16.8 points per game as a varsity player in his freshman year. He averaged 52.8 percent in field goal shooting and 50 percent from the free throw line and seven rebounds per game in the 20 games he participated in as a freshman.

This year Frankie averaged 43 percent from the field and 78.8 from the line with his rebounding coming up to eight per game. His average was 17.5 per game in a total of 32 games in leading the Panthers to the State Class AA title.

Frankie was named to the New Madrid conference all-star team for two hears and the Daily Standard all- star team the past two seasons.

JEFF JACKSON --- This 6-2 forward capped off an illustrious basketball career at Kelly High School by being named to the class AA all- state team this season. Jeff has been the Hawks team leader for the past two seasons having led coach Nick Lanpher's Hawks into the class M state tournament in 1973 and the class AA state tourney in 1974.

The big 6-foot-2 sharp shooter has been the team's leading rebounder for the past two seasons and has triggered the fast break offense of the Hawks. Jeff has been the man the opponents have feared the most when looking to defense the Hawks.

In his junior year Jeff averaged 18 points per game with a 67 percent average from the charity stripe in 25 games. Jeff averaged 19 points per game his senior season and 67 percent from the free throw line in 29 games. Jeff has always been around the 50 percent mark in fieldgoal shooting in his two varsity seasons. Jeff has hung up his basketball shoes and donned his baseball spikes as he is a top flight pitcher and plays shortstop when not on the mound.

Jeff was named to the all- conference teams his junior and senior years and to the Daily Standard all-star teams both years.

ANDY SMELSER --- This young man was better known for his ball handling and assists more than anything during the past two seasons. The 6-foot 1 guard led the Tigers to their first winning season in 13 campaigns with a 18.4 scoring average, 11 per game assist mark and seven rebound per game average. The two time Daily Standard all academic team member, hit 86 percent of his free throws and connected on 51.3 percent of his field goal attempts this season, hitting a high 34 points against Bernie. Andy ranks at the top of his class at RHS and is the first all stater to ever come out of Risco high.

STAN RAY --- The wheel horse of the Cape Central team this season, the 6-foot-9 junior is still growing and may be the tallest athlete to ever come out of the Southeast District. Ray averaged 18.6 points a game this season and led the Tigers to a 15-4 season, scoring a high 28 points in one game and pulling down 311 rebounds for the campaign. Cape went to the quarterfinals of the state tournament before being eliminated by St. Louis Central, the event's runnerup to state champion McCluer.

Perry brothers together again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gaylord Perry is happy to have brother Jim Perry aboard as a fellow member of the Cleveland pitching staff, but he has no intention of relinquishing his status as the Indians' top gun.

"Brother or no brother, Jim will have to fight me for No. 1," Gaylord said after the Indians acquired Jim from the Detroit Tigers Tuesday in a three-way deal that also involved the New York Yankees.

The Tigers sent Jim Perry to Cleveland and pitcher Ed Farmer to New York. The Indians shipped outfielder Walt Williams and rookie pitcher Rich Sawyer to New York while the Yankees dealt catcher Jerry Moses to Detroit.

In other spring training swaps, the Chicago Cubs traded catcher Ken Rudolph to the San Francisco Giants for rookie pitcher Willie Prall and the Cincinnati Reds purchased first baseman-outfielder Terry Crowley from the Texas Rangers.

The three-way trade put the Perry brothers — both former Cy Young Award winners — on the same team for the first time since Jim, 37, was a junior and Gaylord, 35, was a freshman in high school at Williamston, N.C..

Meanwhile, Dave Duncan, who will be catching the Perry boys, celebrated by driving in four runs with a homer and double in the Indians' 8-6 exhibition victory over the Oakland A's. Cleveland pounded Rollie Fingers for six runs in the sixth inning and two in the seventh, offsetting Oakland homers by Vic Davalillo, Pat Bourque and Bert Campaneris.

Elsewhere on the exhibition trail, two-run homers by Richie Zisk and Willie Stargell powered the Pittsburgh Pirates past the Montreal Expos 4-1. In a rematch of last fall's National League playoff rivals, the New York Mets trounced the Cincinnati Reds 7-1 as rookie Bennie Ayala drove in three runs and Ted Martinez hit a two-run homer.

The New York Yankees pounded Luke Walker for three runs in the sixth inning and two in the ninth and beat their former manager Ralph Houk and his Detroit Tigers 6-2. The Minnesota Twins lost for the 12th time in 13 spring games, bowing to the Atlanta Braves 3-1 on rookie pitcher Jamie Easterly's three-run double.

Jim Barr hurled five shutout innings in the San Francisco Giants' 8-3 triumph over the San Diego Padres and Houston's Dave Roberts blanked the Kansas City Royals for six in the Astros' 4-1 victory.

Rookie Mike Reinbach's RBI double and a sacrifice fly by designated hitter Tommy Davis accounted for two eighth-inning runs that lifted the Baltimore Orioles past the Texas Rangers 6-5.

The St. Louis Cardinals used four unearned runs and Reggie Smith's homer to edge the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5. Ron Santo drove in two runs with a pair of doubles to lead the Chicago White Sox over the Boston Red Sox 8-4 and five California pitchers limited the Chicago Cubs to five hits and the Angels won 5-1.

Essex romps

VANDUSER-- The Sikeston Old Timers bowed out of the Vanduser Men's invitational basketball tournament Tuesday night at the hands of Security National Bank 99-89 and First National Bank ran into a former bunch of prep all stars and suffered a 173- 42 thrashing.

Tournament action resumes tonight at 7 p.m. with Lilbourn battling Morehouse and Sikeston radio going against Vanduser.

In Tuesday' night's opening encounter, the Old Timers, apparently tired from Monday night's 123- 55 romp of the Parma Flunkies, fell behind 26- 9 in the first quarter and never recovered as Gary Owens and Morris Karnes paced a five player double figure attack with 27 and 26 points respectively. Terry Coleman and Neil Botsch had 19 each for the Old Timers.

Essex rolled up a 39- 8 first quarter lead with a devastating press and poured on the pressure the entire game in running up the score.

Harold Persful, former Richland prep all- stater, dumped in 48 points and got 38 points backing from Mick Lynch as seven players notched double figure marks. Lee Shell had 12 for First National's leading offensive effort.

Cardinals show power

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals surpassed their 1973 spring training home run output Tuesday while beating the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5 in a Grapefruit League match at Clearwater, Fla.

While winning 13 of 25 exhibition games during the pre-season campaign last year, the Cardinals collected only three homers. Reggie Smith's blast off Philadelphia's Aurelio Monteagud was the fourth for a Cardinal player during their current 6-4 citrus stint.

Smith's blast, which came in the seventh inning, was his second in as many games.

The Cardinals are scheduled to play host to the New York Yankees at Al Lang Field here today.

Local doctors attend seminar

Dr. Robert Bennett, Dr. Edward Scheu and Dr. Lemar Bechtold, Sikeston chiropractors, attended a two-day educational seminar held at Cape Girardeau last Saturday and Sunday.

Dr. Bennett and Dr. Scheu are members of the board of directors for the Southeast Missouri Chiropractors Association, sponsors of the seminar.

Highlight of the event was the participation of three representatives from General American Life Insurance Co. of St. Louis, carrier for Medicare in the eastern portion of Missouri.

The doctors learned there are approximately 20 million senior citizens now participating in Part A of the Medicare Program, hospital insurance. Of this group, 19.3 million are already enrolled in Part B, medical insurance, making them eligible for chiropractic benefits, as outlined in Public Law 92-603 as of July 1973.

Robt. W. Jacobs, director of Medicare relations and control for General American, explained that chiropractic services are covered in respect to treatment by means of manual minipulation of the spine to correct a subluxation demonstrated by x-ray to exist.

Jacobs further stated Medicare coverage provides for payment of 80 per cent of all reasonable and customary charges for covered services after a $60 annual deductible is paid by the patient.

Assisting Jacobs were Harry Riggs, professional relations director, and Dr. W. H. Holland of Collinsville, Ill., Medicare chiropractic consultant for General American.

Also on the program were Dr. James Mertz of St. Louis, a certified roentgenologist and member of the Chiropractic Board of Examiners and Dr. John Cullum of Marshall, Tex., a nationally recognized leader in the field of chiropractic.

Dr. Cullum traced the history of chiropractic since its beginning in 1895 to its present status as the world's second largest healing profession.

Dr. D. Warren Salzmann of Jackson, chairman of the event, reports there were 100 doctors, their wives and assistants in attendance from a four- state area in Missouri, Tennessee, Illinois and Kentucky.

SeMo teachers attend workshop

CAPE GIRARDEAU—Many Southeast Missouri teachers participated in a grievance procedure workshop March 14 at Ramada Inn, which was sponsored by the National Education Association and state and local NEA associations in Southeast Missouri.

Dale Robinson, of Washington, D. C., NEA teacher rights staffer, made the grievance procedure presentation and coordinated the sessions on how to handle local problems.

An experienced expert on teacher rights, Robinson commented, "It was obvious from the questions asked by the participants and from the intense interest exhibited that teachers want and need a process by which their rights may be protected. They are a sensitive, dedicated group and, with their enthusiasm, I hope they'll succeed."

Mrs. Patricia O'Brien, chairman of Missouri- NEA, commented, "It is very evident from this workshop that teachers across Southeast Missouri have severe problems related to both the educational process and their jobs.

"They are in need of school district procedures for handling such problems, in many cases professional help in processing their grievances and in some instances even legal assistance. The Missouri- NEA with ten staff members, is prepared to assist locals in negotiating grievance procedures, and assisting individual teachers in the implementation of such procedures."

Wayne gets new look in 'McQ'

In the movie "McQ", John Wayne steps out of the saddle and into the role of Long McQ, a tough, dedicated detective who likes to play a lone hand. The action- detective drama, which has a PG parental guidance rating, opens Friday at Malco Twin Cinema II in Midtowner Village Shopping Center.

When McQ's best pal on the police force is murdered, McQ goes on a rampage and sets out to pin the act on the big city's dope king. He defies departmental orders in a clash of wills with his superior, played by Eddie Albert, uncovers police corruption and discovers infidelity and greed in a woman he might have loved as he tries to solve the crime.

The movie marked the first time John Wayne and director John Sturges have ever worked together. This is rather singular since both have established their careers on action and have long been regarded as tops in that phase of motion picture making.

Sturges, an Oscar- winner for "Bad Day at Black Rock," has masterminded such action epics as "The Great Escape", "The Old Man and the Sea", "Gunfight at the O. K. Corral", "Hallelujah Trail" and "The Magnificent Seven," which has become a classic in its own time.

Wayne, the star, who has roundhoused, stiff- armed, keel- hauled and blasted bad guys throughout his career, has made around 200 pictures which have grossed some $700 million.

Lawrence Roman wrote the screenplay for "McQ", a Batjac and Levy- Gardner Production for Warner Bros.

The film was shot on location, beginning in Seattle, Wash. For six weeks the company bounced all over town, in and out of hospitals, to boat docks, at marinas on Puget Sound, to used car lots and gas stations, office buildings, sleazy cafes and rundown bars, alleys, shops, night clubs and other places.

McQ battles evil

Fighting the forces of evil in civvies for the first time in many years is John Wayne, who stars in the title role of "McQ." The movie, a Batjac and Levy-Gardner Production for Warner Bros. opens Friday at Malco Twin Cinema II in Midtowner Village Shopping Center. The action- detective drama also stars Eddie Albert and Diana Muldaur and was directed by John Sturges from a screenplay by Lawrence Roman.

Grain Market

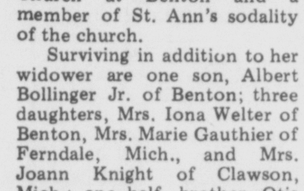
On the opening, soybeans were unchanged to 3¼ cents a bushel lower, March 6.39; wheat was unchanged to 8 higher, March 5.14; corn was ½ to 2½ lower, March 3.30 and oats were 1½ lower to 6 higher, March 1.50.



We Care

Death is the eternal inevitability, the most real of all realities. Yet, it is, perhaps, the hardest of all realities to face. The funeral director, more than most people, has a sympathetic understanding of the nature of grief. He is there, a consoling support, when a bereaved family needs someone to be there . . . Someone who cares.

Nixon speech highlights

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Following are highlights from President Nixon's Tuesday night speech and question-and -anwer session at the convention of the National Association of Broadcasters:

GASOLINE

"It will not be necessary for us to have compulsory rationing in the United States ... Effective this Sunday, I have rescinded the order which closes all service stations on Sunday ... (Energy) Director (William E.) Simon is increasing allocations to industry and agriculture so that they can have the necessary energy to operate at full capacity."

ENERGY LEGISLATION

"When we speak of an energy shortage, the greatest shortage of energy is the lack of the energy on the part of the Congress of the United States in getting together and passing the legislation that will produce more energy ... There are now 17 bills before the Congress which haven't been acted upon which would deal with the problem of increasing the supply of energy."

RESIGNATION

"When we speak of courage, if I could address that from a personal standpoint first of all, it perhaps would be an act of courage to resign. I should also point out, however, that while it might be an act of courage to run away from that job that you were elected to do, it also takes courage to stand and fight for what you believe is right, and that is what I intend to do ...

MIDEAST

"... I would only suggest that in terms of the future of Israel, it is much better to have the United States a friend of Israel's neighbors and thereby able to influence and perhaps restrain their policies rather than an enemy or with no communication ... But let me make one thing very clear. Being a friend of one of Israel's neighbors doesn't make us an enemy of Israel."

IMPEACHMENT PROBE

"The reason that we don't say, 'Come in and bring your U-Haul trailer and haul it out,' very simply is this: it is not because of a lack of desire to cooperate. It is, first, because we believe that the committee has enough information to conduct its investigation and to see whether any charges it may have against the President are true or false. Second, insofar as additional documents are concerned, in other words virtually a hunting license or fishing license, whatever you want to call it, within the White House is concerned, I am following the precedent that every president, Democrat and Republican since the time of Washington has followed, and that is of defending its confidentiality of presidential conversations and communications."

WATERGATE

"Dragging out Watergate drags down America, and I want to bring it to a conclusion. The (burglary) action was wrong, the action was stupid, it should never have happened, it should not have been covered up and I have done the very best that I can over the past year to see that it is uncovered. I have cooperated completely with not only the grand jury but also with other investigative agents and have waived executive privilege perhaps further than I should in terms of the office of the presidency in order to cooperate."

EUROPEAN RELATIONS

"... In the political and economic field, in the deals between the nine, the European Community and the United States, those discussions haven't gone well. They have not gone well due to the fact that the nine at times haven't consulted with us, we think, fully or in time, and second, in some areas, have actually taken a position which is hostile to the United States ... I believe that we are going to work out the differences that we have in the economic and political field."

FOOD

"The situation with regard to pressure on prices I would summarize in this way: It is not over. For example, the inflationary effects of the energy problem will continue to push prices up until we get more production. Insofar as food is concerned, the prospect is better. We expected a very big harvest of grain foods particularly, but as far as beef prices ... the problem is still going to be a very difficult one

.. While we will continue to have a difficult time as far as the consumer price index is concerned, through the balance of the second quarter and possibly into the third quarter, we believe that the upward pressure on prices will then begin to subside and in the latter half of the third quarter and in the last quarter that the food — not only the price level generally, but the food price level, even including beef — will be on a downward trend."

the target of a number of amendments.

A substitute bill was introduced to provide an exemption for prescription drugs and private educational institutions.

It was later amended to authorize the exemption for purchases of private not-for-profit educational institutions but not sales.

Another amendment adopted provided that purchases of farm machinery and machinery used in the production of food be exempted from sales tax collection.

The House approved a measure revising cigarette tax law. It would not change the rate of taxation but would make procedural changes.

Earlier the House concluded lengthy debate on a campaign reform measure by giving it first round approval.

House Republicans and Democrats came to an agreement on the bill, sponsored by Rep. Kenneth Rothman, D-Clayton, after a number of amendments were approved.

It provides spending limitations, enforcement by a bi-partisan commission and much stricter reporting requirements for political committees.

In the Senate an anti-kidnaping amendment was attached to a bill setting a 2-to-10 year prison sentence for those convicted of using a deadly weapon in a felony or misdemeanor.

Sen. Larry Marshall, R-Columbia, withdrew his bill as defense lawyers in the Senate began trying to build a case against it.

Another bill to allow the Department of Education to hire retired teachers as consultants was withdrawn after objections were raised.

Under the bill persons who have taught at least 15 years could receive up to $125 a month from the state's general revenue fund in addition to retirement income.

The total cost of the measure was estimated at more than $4 million a year.

The Senate gave first round approval to bills which would:

—Set up a Division of Youth Services to replace the state Board of Training Schools. The division would have the authority to close training schools and open new ones.

—Allow counties to set up a human resources agency to receive federal funds for economic development projects.

—Require criminal trials to start within 120 days of the arrest if the defendant is in jail and within 160 days after being released on bail.

The body of a 160-pound man consists of about 100 pounds of water, 29 pounds of protein, 25 pounds of fat, 5 pounds of minerals, 1 pound of carbohydrate and one-quarter ounce of vitamins.

HEADQUARTERS FOR FIRESTONE TIRES

Coffee Corner by Cherie

Many of you young mothers and housewives won't remember the Truman administration like I do, but since there has been such a Harry T. revival lately I thought it might be fun to also recall a bit about Bess and her famous Ozark Pudding. Mother made this years ago when Mrs. Truman had just given her recipe out, and I had forgotten all about it till this week, when I pulled it out and tried it on my family. I tell you true — those Democrats always did have a little something special going for them.

Bess's Ozark Pudding

Mix in order given, turn into a greased 8" pie pan & bake 350 for about 35 minutes. Serve warm with cream.

1 egg
3/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup flour
1 1/4 tsp. baking powder
1/8 tsp salt
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1 chopped & peeled apple
1 tsp. vanilla

My next door neighbor throws these biscuits together at the drop of a hat, so, the other day I watched and measured while she stirred up, and now we can all enjoy —

Judy's Biscuits

Cut 2 TBS. bacon grease into 1 1/2 cup of self- rising flour and a pinch of baking soda. Now add 1 full cup of buttermilk. Roll out and cut into rounds. Heat some bacon grease in a pan, flip both sides of each biscuit in grease, and then bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes or till brown.

My family saw the package of meat before I put it in the stew and wouldn't even taste it. Bret said he absolutely refused to eat "beef Posterior" stew, but their loss was my gain for it was delicious! So, if you're not squemish, throw the wrapper away before they see it and make

in Wine

Brown your oxtails in butter in an iron kettle or flameproof casserole. Add, chopped onion, 4 cut-up stalks of celery, and 5-6 carrots cut in 1-inch lengths. Season with salt and pepper, then cover with red wine (no water), add a bay leaf, cover and simmer three hours. Now, add 8-10 small white onions, and 3 potatoes peeled and cubed, cook at least another hour. When tender, skim off fat, and add the juice of half a lemon, and some parsley. Serve piping hot with Judy's biscuits a nice tossed salad and a good bottle of Burgundy and you'll think you're somewhere on the French countryside enjoying a culinary delight. Au revoir!

Just received this in the mail and since I too am dieting, I'll let some of you skinny people try this.

Dear Madam:

You make the Dr. Atkins diet sound marvelous, but please tell us where we can find the copy. Also, to start right, I am throwing this bread receipe away, but it is too good to do that; so I'm sending it to you to print just for the ones, who loves good home made bread and can take it. To each, who tries this, they won't believe they can make bread till they try this.

BREAD STARTER
3 potatoes
1¼ cups boiling water
4 tablespoons sugar
1½ tablespoon salt
1½ cups cold water
1 cake yeast foam, or baker's yeast -- the granulated yeast is OK
1 cup lukewarm water

Pare potatoes and cut into small pieces and cook in the 1¼ cups boiling water. When they are tender, mash them in the water in which they were cooked. Add sugar, salt, and the 1½ cups cold water, or enough to make 3¼ cups liquid. Allow this mixture to become lukewarm, than add the yeast, which has been soaked in the 1 cup lukewarm water. In the morning, stir well and pour off 1 cup to serve as starter the next time; this leaves 3¼ cups of liquid. Add 3 tablespoons fat, 5 tablespoons sugar, and 4 cups sifted flour, or enough to make the dough stiff. Knead this till smooth and elastic. Set in warm place to rise. Work down once; when it rises again, put in pans and bake. This makes three loaves. The liquid yeast should be stored in a loosely- covered container in a cool place. Each time you bake, proceed as first time, except use the 1 cup of starter in place of the softened yeast.

A READER

Dr. Atkins Diet Revolution can be found in paperback form in almost any store that handles that type book.

Those of you who have ordered my cookbook, please bear with me — I am out at the moment but the book is being reprinted, and I should be able to fill your order sometime within the next two weeks

MOM, THE WOLF MAN AND ME
by Norma Klein
(Avon 18259/$.95
156 pp.)

Feminist, mother, and author Norma Klein describes herself as "trying to show life as it appears to be, and especially, to try and avoid pernicious moralizing ... and of course, as I am a feminist, I want freer, more interesting portraits of girls and mothers and aunts." She achieves both aims in her young adult novel MOM, THE WOLF MAN AND ME, a story of intelligent, independent females in a contemporary lifestyle. Thirteen year old Brett and her single, freelance- photographer, peace- marching mother live companionably together in New York. But when a man and his wolf hound — known from that moment on as the Wolf Man — appear on the scene, Brett fights against the impending changes which threaten her world.

MOM, THE WOLF MAN AND ME was first published by Pantheon in 1972; it is the first of four of Norma Klein's titles to appear in Avon paperback print. A second young adult novel, It's Not What You Expect, and two adult titles, Love and Other Euphemisms and Give Me One Good Reason, have also been purchased for Avon paperback publication.

The Lincoln one-cent piece became the first United States coin of a regular series to bear the portrait of an actual person.

ALABAMA COTTON FARMERS GOING TO OTHER CROPS

A movement is on in North Alabama by cotton farmers to go to soybeans and other crops. The farmers say they are disgusted with the declining cotton prices and the attitude of the mills and cotton buyers. The farmers feel that they need a price of at least 65 cents for their 1974 cotton. They do not want to plant an expensive cotton crop, and then watch a lack of interest by mills and cotton merchants run the price down.

One farmer who usually plants 800 acres of cotton says that he is planning to cut back to 400 acres unless the price goes up by planting time. Another farmer stated, "If all the cotton farmers would get together and cut back 25% or more it would serve the mills right. They don't care about farmers anyway!"

Other comments brought out the fact that many farmers may not get enough money to plant a larger crop. Another farmer said that he had the money but couldn't get enough fertilizer.

The North Alabama farmers urge other cotton farmers to speak up also. "With expenses as high as they are we must have a good price or go broke," stated one disturbed farmers. "If we don't look out for ourselves we are through!" another farmer said.

Sam Letson of Moulton, Ala. and a spokesman for the farmers said, "Very few farmers received the high prices last year that people read about. We intend to do what we've said. If cotton prices for 1974 do not go up we WILL not plant as much cotton!"

Cooking With Flair -- for spring

Thoughts of spring give vent to a host of refreshing ideas in the world of foods. Think of those sunny days ahead. This is the time when our instinct for self- preservation is what keeps most of us out of hot kitchens. Easy, convenient foods are the sign of our times; versatility, too, is another "plus" in today's pattern.

Rewarding moments at mealtime often arrive with dessert. After all, it concludes a gathering of the family -- or friends, for that matter. With that in mind, one of the cleverest tricks for this time of year is to assemble a collection of really good dessert recipes.

Orange Pineapple Bavarian is a marvelous dessert that gives the illusion of pure production and lots of time spent. But, that's not the case because it combines the best of two worlds in convenient foods: zesty orange- pineapple gelatin and canned crushed pineapple. A combination hard to beat, it can be enjoyed "family" style in an attractive large serving dish or individual serving dishes. Garnish with mandarin orange sections as a final "trim" to a no fuss or bother dessert.

Swift and cool -- that's the key action when you combine fruit flavor gelatin and fruits into delicious desserts. Keep a good variety of fruit flavor gelatin on your cupboard shelf. Those fresh spring and summer fruits are on their way.

ORANGE PINEAPPLE BAVARIAN

1 can (16oz.) crushed pineapple
3 tablespoons sugar
1 package (3 oz.) orange-pineapple flavor gelatin
1/8 tsp. salt
1 cup boiling water
2 cups prepared whipped topping

Drain pineapple, measuring juice. Add water to juice, if necessary, to make one cup. Add sugar to drained pineapple.

Dissolve gelatin and salt in boiling water. Add measured liquid, and chill until slightly thickened.

Fold in whipped topping and the pineapple. Chill again, if necessary, until mixture will mound.

Spoon into serving bowl or individual dessert dishes. Garnish with mandarin orange sections, maraschino cherries or nuts, if desired. Makes five cups or 10 servings.

Ice cream is one of the most popular of desserts and a year- round favorite with almost everyone. Fortunately for ice cream lovers, we've come a long way since Dolly Madison served "frozen pudding" at a formal White House dinner over 150 years ago.

Soon afterwards the popularity of ice cream spread throughout the land. Sundaes, sodas, and cones became part of the American scene.

In recent years pies have been added to the ice cream repertoire. They're a grand way to make a special dessert of ice cream and yet are easy to prepare. Especially easy is Crispy Ice Cream Pie.

CRISPY ICE CREAM PIE

2 cups crisp rice cereal, cocoa or fruity flavor
2 tbsp. butter or margarine, melted
1 quart vanilla ice cream

Combine cereal and butter; toss lightly to coat. Set aside one half cup. Press remaining cereal evenly into a well-buttered eight- inch pie pan.

Chill about one hour. Fill with ice cream. Sprinkle with reserved cereal. Freeze.

For ease in serving, dip pie pan just to rim in warm water for a few seconds; then cut and serve. Makes six to eight servings.

COLD SOUFFLE

¾ cup sugar
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/8 tsp. salt
1½ cups cold water
4 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1/3 cup orange flavored instant breakfast drink
4 egg whites
½ cup sugar
1 container (4½ oz.) frozen whipped topping, thawed*

*Or use two cups prepared whipped topping, or one cup heavy cream, whipped.

Combine ¾ cup sugar, the gelatin and salt in saucepan. Stir in water. Heat until mixture begins to boil.

Pour small amount of hot mixture into egg yolks, stirring constantly; return to remaining hot mixture in saucepan.

Cook and stir over low heat until mixture coats metal spoon -- about two to three minutes.

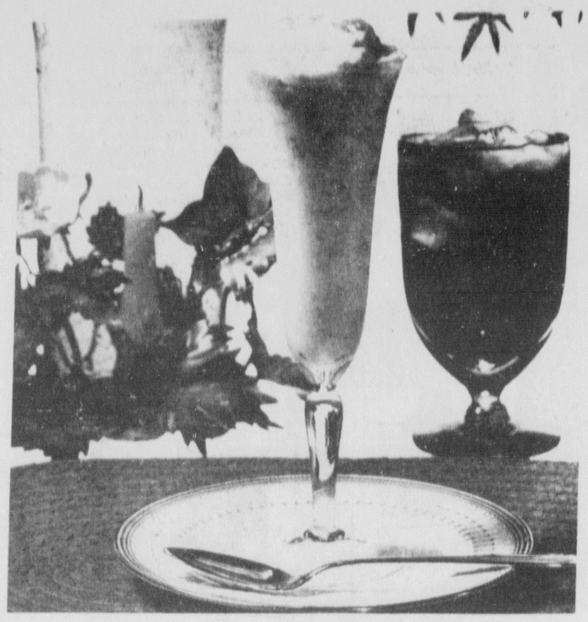
Remove from heat; stir in instant breakfast drink. Chill until thickened.

Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add one-half cup sugar gradually and continue beating until mixture will form stiff peaks. Fold into gelatin mixture; fold in whipped topping.

Pour into a one and one-half quart souffle dish that has been fitted with a paper collar, or into a large serving bowl.

Chill until firm -- about five to six hours or overnight. Garnish with toasted coconut, if desired.

Makes seven cups or 14 servings.



One of your "basic" dessert successes is sure to be Orange Pineapple Bavarian that's a show- off. Luscious and cool, zesty orange- pineapple gelatin and canned crushed pineapple combine in a dessert reward to look like pure production. But that's not the case because it's easy to prepare but looks like much more. Add it to your basic treasury of favorite recipes.

That all- American favorite, ice cream, is the star of this easy- to- make dessert, Crispy Ice Cream Pie. The crust and topping feature crisp, fruity cereal which adds just the right amount of crunchiness to contrast with the ice cream.
